WORK RELIEF WAGE SCALES CAUSE UPROAR

UPWARD REVISIONS AFTER 3 MONTHS ARE HINTED

BY THOMAS J. HAMILTON, JR.
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, May 21 (AP)—Amid storms of labor protests, the administration stood pat today on a work-relief pay scale sharply cutting prevailing rates, but immediately projected an adjustment of the wage structure three months hence.

This revision, authoritative officials hastened to explain, does not foretell necessarily a definite upward shift in wage levels newly-set for most of the $4,000,000,000 program. Present plans, they said, call for general increases in monthly pay rates only if the cost of living mounts rapidly.

Other quarters insisted the three-month check-up was part of original plans and denied vigorously it presented a concession to the torrent of labor complaints.

Green Hints Strike

In New York, Father Charles E. Coughlin termed the wage scales "unjust and unliving wages."

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Senator McCarran (D. Nev.), who led the unsuccessful senate fight to require payment of prevailing wages under the works program, were among the first to declare war on the scale set by President Roosevelt.

Terming the monthly salaries ranging from a low of $19 to a high of $95 "inequitable" and "unsound," Green said "I would not be surprised if it led even to widespread strikes among relief workers."

But for the present, Harry L. Hopkins, the works progress director who is empowered to make wage exemptions and adjustments and to set working hours under a 40-hour week maximum, gave no indication he would exercise this authority to meet organized labor's demands.

President Roosevelt discussed the work program for more than two hours with his three principal lieutenants—Hopkins, Secretary Ickes and Frank C. Walker, head of the applications division. Afterward, Hopkins commented briefly:

"The wage scale is settled. It did not come up."

Judge Interprets Court Injunction

Detroit, May 21 (AP)—Mrs. Mary Gail Broader, 25, who had not spoken to or touched her three small daughters since Saturday, learned with relief today that her interpretation of a court injunction was all a mistake.

Judge James E. Chenot had issued the order restraining her from "molesting or interfering with" the children at the request of her husband, Carl Broader, in connection with a divorce suit.

Mrs. Broader said the neighbors told her this meant she could not address or touch the children, but the judge explained today that it meant merely she could not hide them from the father. Mrs. Broader at once began to comb the tangled hair of Rose Marie, 3, Wanda May, 5, and Patricia Ann, 6, as her attorney moved to petition the court to dissolve the injunction.

DEATH CLAIMS JANE ADDAMS

Social Worker and Peace Champion Succumbs After Operation

Chicago, May 21 (AP)—Jane Addams, internationally known social worker and champion of world peace, died late today in Passavant hospital, where she had undergone a major operation.

Miss Addams, the founder of the famous Chicago social settlement, Hull House and a Nobel prize winner for her peace efforts, would have been 75 years old on September 6.

She was ordered to the hospital Saturday when her physician, Dr. James A. Britton, decided an immediate operation was necessary to relieve abdominal adhesions. Miss Addams had only half an hour's notice, which she said was just long enough to let her finish a book she was reading.

While her age made the operation dangerous, she came through in fairly good condition. Early today, however, she took a turn for the worse. She died at 5:15 p. m. (Central Standard Time).

Until she lapsed into a coma Miss Addams had been calm and smiling and able to read some of the scores of cablegrams and telegrams wishing her a speedy recovery.

Today, however, only one visitor was allowed to be at her side. He was James Weber Linn, professor of English at the University of Chicago, Miss Addams' nephew.

On May 3 of this year Miss Addams, although not in good health, went to Washington to head a celebration of the twentieth anniversary of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, which she founded in 1915. Secretary of the Interior Ickes, in a tribute then, called her "the truest American."

$6 Day Minimum Is Restored By Ford

Detroit, May 21. (AP)—The Ford Motor Co. announced today the restoration of the $6 a day minimum for all employes.

The prepared statement, issued by the company's advertising counsel, said that all employes working at the previous $5 a day minimum have been advanced to the $6 a day standard, which, the statement added, was the 1929 minimum wage for the Ford company.

Employes engaged at rates above the minimum were also advanced to higher wage levels through hourly rate increases of five cents and more.

Martin Bradley's Appointment Near

Saginaw, Mich., May 21 (AP)—A group of Democratic county chairmen who went to Washington recently in an effort to break the deadlock holding up important patronage appointments in Michigan said today that three of them had been agreed upon.

The appointments predicted for the near future are: Giles Kavanaugh, Detroit newspaperman, as collector of internal revenue; Martin Bradley, of Hermansville, as collector of customs, and Lynn Pierson, Detroit, as PWA coordinator.

The group that met here last night included Ben H. Albosta, of Saginaw; Draper Allen and Maurice Fitzgerald, of Pontiac; Richard O'Reilly, of Lansing; George Marble, of Everett, and George Bolling, of Traverse City.

WALKATHONS BACKED

Lansing, Mich., May 21. (AP)—A bill sponsored by Senator Munshaw of Grand Dapids to prohibit the staging of walkathon contests was defeated in the house tonight 50 to 39.

O'HARA LOSING GRIP AS DEMO PARTY LEADER

STATE COMMITTEE TO HOLD RUMP MEETING

BY GILBERT T. SHILSON

Lansing, Mich., May 21 (AP)—Elmer B. O'Hara's grip on the leadership of the Democratic party in Michigan hung in the balance tonight on the eve of a meeting of the party's state central committee called in defiance of the chairman.

Don E. Canfield, secretary, issued the call for the meeting despite O'Hara's warning that the meeting would be illegal without his permission.

Meanwhile Democrats in the house added another thorn to O'Hara's rough party path by passing a bill aimed to unseat him as party chief. The house tacked the bill to another election measure and sent it to the senate for concurrence. It would permit the state central committee of a political party to remove its chairman by a three-fifths vote of the membership.

If a majority of the committee at tomorrow's session are agreeable a steering committee probably will be established to take over control of future campaigns. O'Hara, if the plans of leaders go through, would be ignored by the so-called Comstock-Abbott-Picard wing of the party from then on, although he would retain his title as state chairman.

The division between the factions is the result of a long fight over patronage and party organization. In the party state convention last spring the Comstock group attempted to unseat O'Hara. There has been constant argument as to whether Horatio J. Abbott, national committeeman, or O'Hara should have the final word in Washington on patronage matters. Governor General Frank Murphy, of the Philippine Islands, recently attempted to bring about peace but neither side has yielded.

Canfield intimated that the issue will be put up to the committee "straight from the shoulder." Should a majority oof the members decide to participate in the anti-O'Hara program a committee would be established to raise funds and generally conduct the affairs of the party in accord with the direction of leaders.

AGE PENSIONS PROVIDED FOR

Legislature Will Allot $2,000,000 for This Purpose

Lansing, May 21. (AP)—Senate and house conferees agreed tonight on appropriations of $9,000,000 for emergency welfare relief and $2,000,000 for old age pensions for each year of the next two years.

Under the agreement the special state purpose budget bill will be reported back to the house tomorrow. It was sent to conference following disagreement over the two items between the house and senate.

The senate passed and sent to the senate appropriation bills for the two state training schools, penal institutions, and state hospitals. The bills, which will be returned to the house for concurrence in amendments, fix the following appropriations:

Ypsilanti state hospital, $475,744 for each year of the next biennium; Kalamazoo state hospital, 0827,720; Pontiac state hospital, $531,255; Traverse City state hospital, $657,870; Michigan state prison, $1,316,850; branch prison at Marquette, $299,076 for the first year of the biennium and $294,076 for the second; girls' training school at Adrian, $124,200 for each year; boy's vocational school at Lansing, $233,300.

The wardens of the state prisons are given salary boosts of $500 a year each and the superintendent of the boy's vocational school was given the same increase.

Electric Eel Goes On 3-Day Schedule

New York, May 21 (AP)—The aquarium's electric eel—which supplies current to light a lamp bulb—went on a three-day schedule today.

Aquarium officials said they did not want to weaken their ichthyological power plant.

For the last week the eel has discharged electric current for gaping onlookers to light the bulb with a device fashioned by the aquarium experts.

Smiling Quads Revel in Birthday Joys and Wish Quins Might Share Their Fun

Four smiling little girls just as much alike as their birthday cakes are these, at the fifth birthday celebration of Michigan's quadruplets, nine days before the first anniversary of the famed Dionne quintuplets. Gifts and greeting cards and guests made the day a joyous one in the Carl A. Morlok home in Lansing, Mich., though the quads thought it would have been even better if the quins could have been with them. Left to right are Edna, Wilma, Sarah and Helen, all in perfect health and eagerly awaiting start of school in September.

New Germany Seeks Peace, Says Fuehrer

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER
(Copyright 1935, By The Associated Press)

Berlin, May 21—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler tonight blamed Europe's danger-fraught armaments race squarely on nations victorious in the world war which imposed the Versailles treaty upon Germany.

In an impassioned address to the Reichstag, summoned into special session, he scathingly denounced other powers for violating the peace treaty's arms limitations, thus forcing the Reich to rearm.

Thunderously cheered as he pronounced his eagerly awaited address on foreign policy, which the radio carried to millions throughout Germany and Europe, the fuehrer again protested Germany's desire for peace.

Raps Versailles Treaty

"If the Germany of today favors peace," he said, "it favors it neither out of weakness nor cowardice. x x x We decry every war for the subjugation of foreign peoples.

"Germany of today is immersed in the tremendous work of repairing its domestic damages. None of our subjects of a factual nature will be completed before ten or 20 years. None of our tasks of an ideal nature can find its fulfillment before 50 or even 100 years.

"What else could I desire but quiet and peace?"

Declaring the present "veritable mania of collective and cooperative effort x x x the spiritual property of the American President Wilson," Hitler said the Versailles treaty pronounced the death sentence upon "the collective, cooperative efforts of nations."

In that treaty, he declared, "there was put a classic occasion according to victors and vanquished, in place of equal rights, differentiation between those entitled to rights and those without rights."

Germany nevertheless is willing, the fuehrer told the legislators assembled in the Kroll opera house, to sign non-aggression pacts with all European nations save Lithuania, "not because we want war there but because we can not enter into a political agreement with a state which disregards the most primitive laws of human society."

"Germany has nothing to gain from any European war," Hitler declared, since "we crave freedom and independence. x x x

"We are ready, through non-aggression pacts, to heighten that feeling of security from which we also profit."

The Nazi leader refused, however, as he had often refused before, to consider pacts reinforced through obligations of mutual assistance "which, from the viewpoint of our philosophy, as well as politically and collectively, are impossible for us."

He attacked the "military alliance" between France and Russia as introducing "an element of league insecurity" into "the only clear and really valuable mutual treaty of security of Europe, namely the Locarno pact."

He said flatly Germany would not join any general security system which might compel Nazis to fight on the side of Communism because insofar as Bolshevism "also drags Germany within its scope, we are its bitterest and most fanatical enemies."

RICHBERG ASKS TEETH FOR NRA

Presidential Power for Imposing Codes is Sought

BY CLARENCE M. WRIGHT

Washington, May 21 (AP)—An urgent plea by Donald R. Richberg for presidential power to clamp limited NRA codes on recalcitrant industries presaged another senate-house clash today over the recovery law's future.

The NRA chieftain's request for code-imposing authority was made personally to the house ways and means committee. But already a number of senators had served notice they would contest such a step, insisting that their simple resolution extending the NRA to 9½ months, forbidding price fixing and excluding intrastate business should become the law.

Richberg made clear he was not recommending reenactment of the power to permit licensing of industries which would not accept codes. That was contained in the original NIRA but expired last June without having been used.

At present, the chief executive may "prescribe" or impose codes fixing wages and hours, forbidding child labor and guaranteeing the right of collective bargaining. Neither has that power been used.

"If there are to be prescribed codes," Richberg said, "there should be in the law a definite direction so that the president would be merely carrying out the mandate of congress. If there are any prescribed codes, the standard should be laid down by congress."

Trainer Killed As Elephants Stampede

Los Angeles, May 21 (AP)—The sudden reversion of caged animals to the killing instincts of their jungle forbears claimed the life today of the second trainer here in 10 days.

"Prince," bull elephant leader of the herd at Al G. Barnes circus winter quarters at Baldwin park, fatally gored Joe Reed, veteran trainer, as Reed was putting eight elephants and 12 Tigers through their paces for a jungle film. Reed died in a hospital.

On May 12, Harman Ziegler, likewise an experienced animal trainer, died of wounds inflicted when 15 lions went wild at a lion farm at El Monte.

Reed met death when the elephant herd stampeded. Snapping his heavy chains as if they were paper, Prince attacked Reed, goring him three times with his great tusks while the other elephants charged wildly about.

Reed's tigers took no part in the killing, running instead to their cage, screaming and snarling.

PRICES OF HOGS REACH NEW TOP

Advance Is Reflected in Other Markets; Corn Belt Happy

Chicago, May 21 (AP)—The once lowly hog assumed a position of financial importance today.

Hog prices here swept up 25 cents in an active round of buying to a top of $10, the highest in 55 months—since October, 1930. It was also ten cents above the previous 1935 peak.

The spectacular advance was reflected in other primary markets and was, of course, more than welcome throughout the corn belt. It was attributable to the old law of supply and demand. Only 9,000 porkers were received here, including 3,000 direct to packers. Coupled with Monday's 11,060 Chicago arrivals, the two day supply in Chicago and seven other leading markets was the smallest in a generation. It failed to meet immediate requirements.

One of the major factors in the curtailment of shipments was the government's 1934 campaign to reduce the hog population.

With the processing tax of $2.25 a hundred weight considered, the average price paid by packers today was approximately $11.90. This compared with an average of $12.40 during 1926, the generally accepted goal of the agricultural administration. Today's top of $10 plus the processing levy set packers back $12.25. They have not paid so much since pre-depression days.

Barbara and Hubby Will Live In U. S.

New York, May 21 (AP)—Arriving from the west with her new husband, Count Haugwitz-Reventlow, the former Barbara Hutton Mdivani announced emphatically today that she did not plan to give up her American residence for a Spanish castle.

The Woolworth heiress was wearing a blue polka dot dress, a mink cape and a pair of diamond earrings that obviously did not come from the five-and-ten she stepped out of her private railroad car with a bright smile.

"We heard you were going to live in Denmark, count," someone called.

"No," said the countess firmly, answering for her husband, "we are going to live in the United States."

"How do you like the United States, count?"

The count, who had been standing by looking pleasant, replied:

"I love it."

The couple added they planned to sail May 29 for a trip abroad but would return after a month.

ILLINOIS NEEDY ARE DENIED AID

Federal or State Help Not Available Before July 1

Springfield, Ill., May 21 (AP)—The hopes of Illinois' 1,200,000 jobless for early resumption of relief were dashed late today and they faced the prospect of receiving no federal or state aid again until July 1.

The first blow came with failure of the house of representatives to adopt a bill increasing the sales tax from two to three per cent by an emergency majority of 102. Passage would have provided relief funds immediately. A caucus of the Democratic majority then decided to enact the legislation by a majority of 77, which would make it effective July 1.

No provision was made for food for the needy in the meantime. Harry Hopkins, FERA administrator, has repeatedly declared he would send no more federal grants to the state until it advances $3,000,000 a month as its share of the relief costs.

Wilfred Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois emergency relief commission, stated at Chicago:

"The I. E. R. C. is at the absolute end of its rope."

The Illinois workers alliance claimed 3,000 persons had joined in a hunger march in Springfield today.

Administration leaders, who had been unable to muster the necessary 102 votes in five roll calls during the three weeks the state has been denied government allotments, gained four votes today when the unofficial count stood at 94 to 54 in their favor.

The legislative session was one of the most dramatic in recent years.

NRA Has Failed In Retail Coal Trade, Association Told

Jackson, Mich., May 21 (AP)—Andrew T. Murphy, Chicago trade journal publisher, told 250 members of the Michigan retail coal merchants association today that NRA was a failure in the retail coal business and that it had proved to be "a chiselers paradise."

Murphy urged his hearers to support the movement for a voluntary code of fair practice in the business.

The association adopted a resolution opposing what was described as the competitive measures of the large operators, declaring that if such competition continued, he retailers would suffer.

Night Telephone Rates Effective After 7 In June

Lansing, May 21 (AP)—Night telephone rates will become operative at 7 p. m. after June 1 under an order issued by the state public utilities commission today at the request of the Michigan Bell Telephone company.

Under present schedules the night rate, 40 per cent lower than the day rate, becomes operative at 8:30 p. m. Between 7 p. m. and 8:30 p. m. an intermediate rate, 25 per cent lower than the day rate, is charged.

Orders Peanuts and Gets $750 In Bills

North Attleboro, Mass., May 21 (AP)—Louis De Costerio, a waiter, rushed into a candy store today and ordered 25 cents worth of peanuts. The clerk shoved a bag forward and De Costerio deposited his quarter.

At home he put his hand into the bag and pulled out $750 in bills. The clerk had given him a bag containing yesterday's receipts.

De Costerio went back and exchanged the $750 for 25 cents worth of peanuts.

LEADERS SAY SENATE WILL SUSTAIN VETO

COMPROMISE MIGHT BE SOUGHT THIS SESSION

BY NATHAN ROBERTSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, May 21 (AP)—Congress, more than a little tense, awaited President Roosevelt's precedent-making delivery tomorrow of a death blow at the inflationary Patman bonus bill, confident that it would serve as a signal for a new bonus legislation drive.

Leaders on both sides tonight were agreed that the veto would be sustained in the senate, possibly before tomorrow nightfall. Thus, they regarded the contest over the Patman bill as a preliminary skirmish, but one that might have a deciding influence on the future campaign for bonus and monetary legislation.

For this reason, liberals and conservatives in congress both awaited the message with something akin to anxiety. Some Democratic conservatives expressed hope the chief executive would close the door to paper inflation with such force that the noise would be heard in the 1936 campaign.

On the bonus issue, there was much talk of a compromise measure following word that President Roosevelt had asserted privately he would veto any bill for "full and immediate" payment.

Chamber in Uproar

Symptomatic to the tension preceding the veto broadcast by the president from the house chamber [illegible] p. m., eastern standard time tomorrow was the row that involved the senate most of the day.

Senator Long (D. La.), following an initial objection by Senator Steiwer (R. Ore.), talked at such length in attacking the administration on various fronts that he delayed action on the resolution for a joint session of the senate and house to hear the president. He in turn was so loudly attacked that the chamber was in an uproar.

Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, at first declined to disclose his plans in the face of Long's blocking tactics. At one point, after the Louisianan had refused to permit a vote, he said off the floor:

"Let's see how long he will continue to make an ass of himself."

As the bonus issue stood tonight, administration leaders looked ahead to the possibility of working out some kind of a compromise on the question. Cash bonus forces, however, were unitedly opposed to talk of a compromise, but divided among themselves on the best strategic course.

Patman forces generally did not engage in the fight on the proposal for the join session. They said they were willing to agree to the plan and to an early vote on the veto.

House leaders announced that the vote on the veto would come immediately after its delivery by the president.

American Legion officials said today that they were not attempting to bring "hostile" pressure of the 12 senators they named as the target for a special telegraphic drive for the Patman bill.

"But that list," the Legion said, "includes all those who

In the Headlines From Washington

(By The Associated Press)

The tense attitude of congress while awaiting President Roosevelt's bonus veto message was evidenced in a row between Senators McKellar (D-Tenn.) and Long (D-La.)

Comptroller General McCarl condemned the TVA act as "haphazard legislation" and apparently included other recent statutes in this classification.

Donald Richberg asked inclusion of presidential power to prescribe codes for recalcitrant industries in the NRA extension bill.

House leaders sought a presidential endorsement of the Wagner labor disputes bill before bringing it up for a vote.

Senator Tydings (D-Md.) appealed to the senate for a "five-year armament holiday."

A joint conference of Appalachian soft coal operators and miners announced failure of negotiations for a new wage agreement.

PUBLIC TRUST COMISH SCORED

Property Custodian Bill Denied Passage by State Senate

BY WILLIAM R. MULLER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Lansing, May 21 (AP)—Scathing criticism of the state public trust commission by the chairman of the senate taxation committee killed the last hope for passage of the property custodian bill today.

The bill would have permitted the commission to initiate court receiverships for tax delinquent property on which mortgage bonds have been issued. Senator Andrew L. Moore, Republican, Pontiac, declared an investigation had convinced him "that this is no time to put further powers in the hands of the commission."

Senator Moore said he had investigated the minutes of the commission and found a record of a meeting in which Commissioner Edward A. Nowack had moved to give Commissioner Harold T. Ellerby and Charles J. Deland, member of a bond holders protective committee, $50 a day and expenses to travel to California to investigate the refinancing and reorganization of eight companies which had sold bonds in Michigan. The commission accepted Nowack's proposal.

Special Fees Charged

"I am not greatly concerned with reports reaching me that Nowack has been overpaid for his services on the bondholders committee of the Detroit Trust company," the senator said. "I am concerned with the record showing he voted to give a member of the commission $50 a day, to be paid from the pockets of distressed bondholders, in addition to his salary of $4,400 a year from the state."

"My investigation disclosed also that two members of the former commission had made the same trip," Moore continued. Senator Leon D. Case, Democrat, Watervliet, demanded their identity, and Moore named former Commissioners Charles Kimmerle and Herbert P. Carrow, dropped by the Republican administration.

Governor Fitzgerald said today he would investigate the rumors of special fees charged by public trust commissioners and the reports that Nowack had profitted excessively from being a member of the Detroit Trust company bond holders protective committee.

The state affairs committee of the senate failed today to report eight PWA bills, passage of which has been asked by the public works administration at Washington, to the floor for consideration. They are designed to give local legislative bodies wide powers in issuing revenue bonds and determining public works projects.

The same committee reported for consideration a house bill which would prevent private enterprises from commercializing minor games of chance. It would permit religious and benevolent organizations to hold raffles and "Beano" games.

The house plowed slowly through a long calendar of senate bills. A measure repealing the head tax law and reducing the age limit to 65 years for the old age pension after 1940 was amended and sent back to the senate for concurrence.

The house defeated a measure labelled "anti-Communist," which would give school boards authority to bar public meetings in their discretion. Measures to regulate commercial fishing in the Great Lakes were amended so the final provision probably will be decided in a conference committee.

Polish Settlement Of Detroit Honors Hausner's Memory

Detroit, May 21 (AP)—Detroit's Polish settlement paid a final heartfelt tribute today to the memory of Stanley Hausner, aviator whose dream of making a good-will flight from the United States to Warsaw ended Saturday in death.

Among the sorrowing thousands who jammed the Sweetest Heart of Mary church for the funeral of the 35-year-old Polish-American flier were many who had stared in speechless horror four days ago when his red-and-silver monoplane, the "Marshal Pilsudski", crashed and burned near the church.

Hausner was stunting over the church during memorial services for the plane's namesake, Marshal Josef Pilsudski, dictator of Poland, when the plane's wing tore loose and he plunged to his death. Undeterred by two previous unsuccessful attempts to fly to Poland, Hausner had been raising funds for a new transatlantic flight scheduled for June.

Two brothers of the aviator, Paul and Thomas Hausner, supported Mrs. Martha Hausner, his widow, as he entered the church.

Flying Cavalier Is Safe In Brazil

Rio De Janeiro, May 21 (AP)—Juan Ignacio Pombo, 21, Spain's flying cavalier, became the youngest aviator ever to span the Atlantic today when he roared to a stop at Natal, Brazil, after a 16 hour, 55 minute flight from Africa.

Carrying in his breast pocket a picture of his childhood sweetheart in Mexico, D. F., whom he is en-route to see, he left Bathurst, Gambia, West Africa, at 8:15 p. m. (E. S. T.) last night and landed at Natal at 3:10 p. m. (1:10 p. m., E. S. T.).

(Madrid dispatches said congress leaped to its feet to cheer the news of Pombo's arrival and Premier Alejandro Lerroux disclosed that Pomba had only 60 pesetas (about $6.80) in his pockets when he left Seville, Spain, last Thursday.)

From Natal Pombo will fly by stages to Mexico in the powerful plane, the "Santander." There he expects to ask the hand of Senorita Elena Rivero, his comely childhood sweetheart in Santander.

Mrs. Roosevelt Is Visitor At Mine

Bellaire, O., May 21. (AP)—Braving the dangers of a two mile journey through subterranean passages, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt acquired today a first hand knowledge of coal mining.

With a miners' cap, equipped with an electric light, atop her head, the first lady of the land rode with nearly 60 other persons in an electrically-operated train of mine cars far down into the workings of the Hanna Coal company's mine at the nearby village of Neffs.

She spent more than an hour and a half underground, watching 400 dust-stained miners at their work, and then emerged exclaiming, "It was very interesting and instructing."

Boy Is Killed By Four Husky Dogs

The Pas, Man., May 21. (AP)—An inquest was ordered today into the killing of little Mike Seginovitch by four husky dogs yesterday.

The boy had been playing on an unused trail with Joe Kryschuk, a lad his own age. The first news of the tragedy was brought by Joe, who went running to his mother's home.

Mrs. Kryschuk drove the dogs away from the boy, then carried him to her home. He died later in a hospital.

FISCHER COPS BIG TEN MEET

Rips Par to Shreds in Beating Kocsis, His Teammate

BY PAUL MICKELSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Chicago, May 21 (AP)—Johnny Fischer, gangling sharpshooter from Michigan, ripped par to shreds with a spectacular finish at Kildeer today to overtake his teammate, Charles Kocsis, and score the first grand slam in the history of Big Ten golf championship play.

Three shots behind with only nine of the 72 holes to travel, Johnny pumped his shots with such deadly precision that he shattered par by four strokes with a magnificent 31 to beat Kacsis, defending titleholder, by three blows. His total was 281, two under the Big Ten record held by Kocsis, who finished with 284 today.

It was the third Big Ten triumph in as many starts for Johnny. He won it in 1932, retained it in 1933, gave up the event last year to compete with America's Walker cup team, and then returned this week to give himself a perfect record. His marksmanship, coupled with that of Kocsis, Woodrow Malloy and Allen Saunders, won for Michigan the conference team championship, the fourth straight year.

Team Record Broken

The Wolverines scored a grand total of 1163 points or 60 less than Northwestern, the runner-up. The total also broke Michigan's own team record by 57 blows.

After holding Kocsis even through the first two rounds yesterday with a 69 and 70, and going ahead at the three-quarters mark with a 73 to Chuck's 76, Fischer blew heart-breaking putts on the front stretch so consistently that he took a 38, falling three shots behind Kocsis, who burned up the same distance with a 32, three under par. Johnny scored birdies on the 10th and 11th, lost a stroke to par on the 12th, and then drove along with three more birdies and three pars for his 31.

Five birdies decorated his back card, giving him an 18 hole finishing round of 69 after she shaky start.

Kocsis hit all his shots well and finished with a 69 but tossed birdies away by failing to drop six-foot putts. On the final back nine, where he needed 37 strokes, he putted for birdies on almost every hole only to skid two over par with a 37.

Michigan almost swept the first four places on the individual championship test.

In third place was Malloy with 297. Bill Flynn, Northwestern, finished fourth with 300, one less than Saunders of Michigan.

Michigan Air Tour May Be Cancelled

Lansing, May 21. (AP)—Too many airport dedications threatened today to wipe out the Michigan air tour for the first time in years.

Major Floyd E. Evans, director of aeronautics for Michigan, and Sheldon B. Steers, assistant director, said today they did not see how the tour could be staged without spoiling the plans of municipalities to open new or improved ports with big air shows.

Many of the new airports were established as PWA projects.

Woman Sentenced For Embezzlement

Detroit, May 21. (AP)—Judge Henry S. Sweeny of recorder's court sentenced Mrs. Helen E. Wood, 35, today to serve from three to 10 years in the Detroit house of correction for embezzling $10,000 from her employers, Raymond and Raymond, insurance agents.

Mrs. Wood pleaded guilty. She admitted the embezzlement covered a period of seven years when she was handling the bookkeeping and collections in the casualty department of the firm.

Richmond, (AP)—A double funeral service will be held Thursday for George Graves, 82, and his sister, Miss Nettie Graves, 76, who died within six hours of each other in the same house. They had spent their entire lives in Richmond township.

Faulty Wing Dooms Ocean Flyer

Death, whom Stanley Hausner (right) cheated in 1932 when rescued after floating eight days following a forced landing at seat during an attempted flight to Warsaw, finally overtook him at Detroit. He crashed during memorial manoeuvers for the late Marshal Pilsudski of Poland. Three buildings caught fire when his plane fell through the roof of a cottage and exploded, burning him to death while Polish World war veterans, assembled for the memorial service, looked on helplessly. The veterans' bugler is pictured above, blowing taps beside the smoldering wreckage of Hausner's plane. Collapse of a wing of the plane was blamed for the crash.

Village Clerk Of Lowell Is Found In Dazed Condition

Stanton, Mich., May 21. (AP)—O. J. Brezina, village clerk of Lowell, who disappeared last Thursday, was found by state police today in the courthouse here, apparently in a dazed condition, weak from hunger and unable to identify himself.

Lieut. Arthur J. Sielon, Muskegon police officer, and State Trooper Lester Covkendall, identified Brezina through papers found in his pockets.

He disappeared with his truck last Thursday while delivering a rug to a farm house four miles from Lowell. He was a member of a Lowell furniture firm. The abandoned truck was found near here Monday, its gasoline tank dry.

Authorities were unable to explain why Brezina disappeared, although members of his family said he had been worried over the illness of his mother-in-law who died during his absence.

Neighbor Absent, Boys Play Tarzan

Pampa, Tex., May 21. (AP)—What greeted Homer Wallace when he returned home after a vacation was catsup on the ceiling, flour on the furniture, sugar on the floor and ink on the bathtub.

"We were playing Tarzan," confessed three small boys when collared. Loosened overhead light fixtures bore them out.

There was nothing Tarzan-like in the protests that went up when parents took the trio in tow.

LAWSON LITTLE VICTOR AGAIN

Champion Wins Second Round Match With Brilliant Style

BY GAYLE TALBOT
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

St. Annes-on-the-Sea, Eng., May 21 (AP)—Shaking off the blight which attacked his game yesterday, William Lawson Little, Jr., came back with a roar today in the second round of the British amateur golf championship to blast former champion Eric Martin Smith out of the running, 4 and 3. Once again the American established himself the overwhelming favorite to retain the title—a feat accomplished only twice in the 50 years of the tournament.

Where nightfall yesterday found the galleryites sadly shaking their heads and predicting his early demise, tonight witnessed only a wild and enthusiastic rush to jump on the husky champion's bandwagon. No one of the gallery of approximately 2,000, which watched him shoot even fours at Smith for the 15 holes their match lasted, could picture his defeat at the hands of any player left in the field.

Jock Offers Advice

With the defeated Jock McLean, the Scottish idol who was the victim of a first round upset, standing behind him offering advice and Henry Cotton, British open king, in the gallery, Little from the start played almost the same dazzling game which marked his sensational 14 to 13 victory over Jim Wallace in the final of the 1934 championship at Prestwick.

The curly-haired San Francisco bombardier made several mistakes, even missing a putt under two feet, but they were more than counter-balanced by a long string of holes where he was putting for birdies after accurately-gauged, pin-splitting approaches of the long and short variety.

Little's score was even more remarkable in view of the fact his card contained sixes on the seventh and 12 holes where he three-putted. Excluding those holes, Little used his putter only 22 times on the other 13.

Less prominent American entries, John Forsman of New York; Robert W. Knowles, Jr., of Brookline, Mass.; Guy Hayes of North Andover, Mass., and Robert A Stranahan of Toledo, O., passed out of the championship, but on the brighter side was the impressive victory of T. Suffern (Tommy) Tailer, Jr., of Piping Rock, L. I., and another by Captain A. Bullock Webster of Monterey, California.

Spartans Defeat Michigan Normal

Ypsilanti, May 21. (AP)—Michigan State college eked out its second successive one run victory over Michigan Normal college today 5 to 4. In a previous meeting the Spartans were victorious by a 4 to 3 count.

State won the game in the ninta inning when George Moroz, Normal catcher, let one of John Johnson's pitches get by him with the bases packed to allow Arnold Parker, Spartan hurler to come home from third with the deciding tally. Two men were out and the batter, Lehnhardt, was retired on the next pitch to end the inning.

Irving Bartling, State first sacker, poled a ball out of the park for a home run with Weimer on second in the fourth.

Score by innings:

State	200	200	001	—	5	7	3
Normal	100	200	100	—	4	6	4

Community Service Is Discussed At Kiwanis Meeting

San Antonio, Tex., May 21.—"Kiwanis clubs in the U. S. and Canada have never done more worthy work than during the past year," declared Dr. William J. Carrington, of Atlantic City, N. J., president, today at the 19th annual convention of the service organization being held here. "Kiwanis achievements in community work are real constructive efforts in meeting business, educational and citizenship problems. The 1,847 clubs on the North American continent completed thousands of community and welfare activities," he said.

All-Kiwanis Night

A great army of Kiwanians has struck its tents, Dr. Carrington explained last evening to 85,000 Kiwanians in a coast to coast meeting. "Beyond the confusion of these tangled times Kiwanis has caught a vision of a fairer land," he said. "We see the under-privileged forever banished. But the trails to this fair land are not yet blazed. The way is blocked by waste, ignorance and idleness. With the faith of our liberty-loving forefathers, the strength of a united purpose and the spirit of pioneers, Kiwanians now face new social frontiers, beset with the wild waste of government extravagance, ignorance and idleness. Without economy and efficiency in government, without adequate educational facilities and without directive education for the new leisure, we can never hope to capture the land of our dreams. But with enthusiasm and increased membership, we are on our way," he said.

Roe Fulkerson, of Washington, D. C., in an address "Home Work," made an appeal for parents to earnestly establish harmony and understanding with their children. "Vocational guidance," said Mr. Fulkerson, "like charity must begin at home. When you have established a perfect understanding with your own children, then will you have the needed experience, the needed sympathy to help in the guidance of less fortunate children. Having established this sympathetic relation we need to do two other things. We must get away from our false standards of success. Money does not bring happiness and we should encourage our children to develop their natural talents regardless of compensation! This way happiness lies. Then, too, we must not try to live our lives over again in our children and graft on to their little lives our own defeated hopes and ambitions. We have lived our lives, have failed or succeeded, and we should permit our children to live their own lives and realize their ambitions," he said.

GERMAN ARMY TO BE BOOSTED

Persons Between 18 to 45 Ordered to Serve One Year

Berlin, May 21 (AP)—The government issued a law tonight compelling all Germans between the ages of 18 and 45 to serve one year in the army. It is effective at once.

Persons over 45 will form reserves and "during war every German man and woman will be obliged to serve the Fatherland," the decree said.

While the government did not divulge the exact size of Germany's army under the recent conscription law, it was said it would consist of 36 divisions. The strength of a division was not stated.

"This new law," the propaganda ministry asserted, "does not mean that Germany's army will swell to millions. The minister of defense will enlist persons so far as there are vacancies. The often mentioned figure of from 550,000 to 600,000 is above average."

Jews apparently will be barred from military service except in special cases. Young Germans will not be called to arms before the age of 20.

The Catholic clergy with the rank of sub-deacon and higher and persons declared physically unfit after an examination will not be drafted.

Col. Lawrence Of Arabia Is Buried

Wool, Dorsetshire, Eng., May 21. (AP)—Col. T. W. Lawrence, the glamorous figure of Arabia and the World War, was buried today in a grave unmarked by wreath or stone.

In the Dorset Moors, far from the scene of his desert triumphs, Lawrence, victim of a motorcycle accident, was buried with simple rites in the little burial plot at the village of Moreton. Winston Churchill, wartime minister of munitions, made no effort to conceal his emotions.

There were no words of praise spoken at the burial of the 46 year old man whose career had become a saga of heroism while he yet lived.

There was a 17 minute funeral service in the tiny church at Moreton which seats but 170 persons. Then the casket was borne to a four wheeled handcart, upon which the body of "Lawrence of Arabia" made the last journey.

Lansing, (AP)—The city of Lansing hoped tonight that its check for $13,177 would be considered by the Ingham county welfare commission as payment in full of a $75,523 past due welfare bill. The board had served notice that unless the city paid up it would receive no more benefits.

HEARING CALLED ON PAVING PLAN

Residents of South 11th Meet With Escanaba Council Friday

Notices have been sent out by Carl Anderson, Escanaba city clerk, announcing a meeting of South Eleventh street property owners with the city council Friday evening to discuss types of paving proposed for the improvement of South Eleventh. The hearing is called for 7:30 p. m.

The matter of surfacing South Eleventh was brought to the attention of the council in a petition signed by a group of property owners living on the street, and the city engineer's office was instructed to prepare figures on the cost. Two types of paving were considered, concrete and asphalt, and the costs will be compared to assist the interested property owners in choosing the type of pavement.

A storm sewer remains to be installed on South Eleventh before paving is started. This has been listed as a relief labor project, but not authorized as yet.

The annual budget ordinance, calling for $127,370 to be raised by taxes, will come up for final reading at the next meeting of the council. The budget provides for salary increases to regular city employes and purchases of equipment which are required to effect higher efficiency. Collections of delinquent taxes and utility bills have shown no definite improvement in the past year, and City Manager T. F. Kessler said that no great allowance has been made in the budget in anticipation of increasing collections during the coming year. The tax rate for city purposes is expected to be well under $15 a thousand, providing the city valuation for tax purposes undergoes no great change.

Color Pictures Of Band Festival Might Be Taken

The will of Thomas Reed, Cornwall, Eng., bequeathed his widow "sufficient to maintain her in reasonable manner, without swank."

Subsistence Homestead Community Established In Forest at Basswood

BY PAUL MAY

Washington, D. C., May 20.—A community of 350 subsistence homesteads will be formed by the U. S. Forest Service at Basswood in the Ottawa National Forest as part of Rexford Tugwell's rural resettlement program, an official of the land use division of the forest service said today.

The homestead families will be used to rebuild the Ottawa forest under a plan formulated by John French, upper peninsula director of the rehabilitation corporation, and Guy Camp of the Forest Service's Wilwaukee office. The plan involves cooperation with the Von Platen Fox Lumber company.

In the neighborhood of Lake Gogebic, the Forest Service now owns 150 million of 500 million feet of timber, and is endeavoring to obtain control of the balance of the timber. The timber of the lumber company and the forest service will be pooled as a permanent supply near the lumber mill at Basswood, it was said. Labor of subsistence homestead families, and even transient labor, will be employed to develop the farms and to work in the forest and at the mill.

Plan Similar Project

Surveys for similar projects are being completed for other national forests in Michigan, it was said. The number of families now living in forests and the number which could be supported on forest and farm profits will be ascertained, and then a definite plan for moving formulated. Logical homestead localities will be selected with due regard to location of industries, schools, good farm lands, community centers, and roads, so that the homestead people will have better advantages than they have hitherto had. The forest service will buy the submarginal unprofitable farms where they are privately owned, then transport the families to homestead lands purchased by the government. The government will also build their homes, it was said.

In forests where there is a profit from sale of timber, the families will be paid out of these profits. In forests requiring rebuilding, the families will be paid a direct wage.

MAY 30 RITES SET FOR NIGHT

Escanaba Legion Varies Program Observing Memorial Day

Department from tratitional proceedure, the American Legion this year will stage the major part of Escanaba's Memorial Day program in the evening instead of in the morning, and assurance has been given that Gladstone and other near-by communities will join in the observance to make it a huge county demonstration.

A colorful parade, led by musical units of the Legion, cities and schools, is being planned as the opening event of the evening Memorial Day program, and this will be followed by addresses, memorial rites, and music at Ludington park.

The change in time was decided upon at a meeting of Cloverland Post 82, American Legion, at the suggestion of Elmer Swanson, vice commander of the local post. It was pointed out that the evening program would be more in keeping with modern times, due to the fact that many look upon Memorial Day as an opportunity for a holiday motor trip or picnic. Those planning trips are unable to attend morning memorial services, and those who do attend because of the participation of children or other members of their families, find their trips delayed. By staging the program in the evening, it is believed that the crowd in attendance will break all previous records.

Memorial rites at cemeteries will be observed as usual in the forenoon, with the Legion firing squad, colors and bugler taking part. Vice Commander Swanson has been appointed to take charge of this observance, with Ralph R. Olsen as his assistant. Commander Alex Madalia has named a Memorial Day planning committee Swanson, and L. A. Danielson. Commander Eugene Noblet of the Gladstone Legion post has agreed to take charge of arrangements for that city's participation in the inter-city Memorial Day demonstration.

RELIEF ROLLS FALLING OFF

Poll Reports Many Have Obtained Private Employment

Newberry, May 21—A decided dropping in the number on Luce county relief rolls has been noted by E. G. Pell, county Emergency Relief Administrator, although he is unable to give exact figures because of constant fluctuations. During the past few weeks more and more persons have been able to obtain private employment, so much so, Mr. Pell states, that several of their work projects are now running short-handed and one or two have been discontinued.

A meeting of relief workers from twelve counties was held on Saturday at the regional headquarters at Mackinaw City, when several of the state officials were present and the methods of making the re-examination of relief rolls was discussed. A uniform plan is to be carried out in the state, although each county is able to adopt the plan to the particular problems. Every effort is being made to get the relief families "on their own" again. The greatest difficulty is the dread of unemployment on the part of the clients. They fear to take a job with private industry for fear of losing it again and the relief workers are trying to get them to understand that if only part time work can be obtained and the client will report the situation to the offices he will be given enough assistance to make it possible for him to continue.

The re-examination will not be rushed. As a relief project is closed those who have been working on it will receive notices to appear at a certain time at some central designated place in order that the proper reports can be made. In the mean time, direct relief will be given where necessary. The National Re-employment office under the charge of Louis Delgrad in the county garage will continue to function.

POPPY DAY

Mrs. Walter Johnson is the general chairman appointed by the Legion Auxillary for the annual Poppy Day sale to be held on Frdiay and Saturday of this week. Mrs. Johnson reports that she has arranged to have a group of junior and senior high school girls put on the campaign this year. They will cover their several districts on Friday afternoon after school and on Saturday morning and on Saturday afternoon will be selling on the streets.

Ruth Stephens, secretary of the Legion reports that the National Legion headquarters has arranged for "Poppy Day Talks" to be given over dozens of the radio broadcasts.

BAD FIRES

Nine fires in slash and grass country are keeping conservation men and CCC crews busy in the western edge of the district in Alger and Schoolcraft counties. A permit fire asked for to burn two acres got away from the land owners and is still going. Joe Stephensky from the Newberry office, Ed. Morse, free lance officer out of Marquette, and 25 CCC boys are working on this. Brisk winds and dry weather are adding to the hazard. It is believed that crews on all of the fires excepting the one south of Germfask will be under control by night.

FIRE VICTIM

Mrs. Sam Kokko, sister of Mrs. Isaac Hakola of Newberry, was burned fatally Saturday at her farm home near Dafter when the kerosene with which she was kindling a fire exploded. She died Sunday at the Memorial hospital in Sault Ste. Marie, where her 36 year old son is still a patient with serious burns on feet, hands and face. The Kokko family are former residents of Newberry moving away from here many years ago. The father died in 1913. Mr. and Mrs. Hakola and family were called to the Sault on Sunday and attended the funeral which was conducted on Monday.

NEWBERRY LOCALS

Newberry needs the services of a "steeple jack" for a short time. The flag displayed on the flag pole in front of the grade school building has been up for several weeks since a high wind whipped the line out of the pulley, so that the janitors are unable to lower it.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wilson made an emergency trip to the Northern Children's Clinic on Monday to take their eight month old son, Charles Thomas, there for treatment. The baby was taken suddenly ill Monday morning, the exact nature not being known.

Mrs. N. E. Niegarth and daughter Ida of Alpena were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Doten over the week-end. They took back with them Miss Jean Neigarth who has been visiting the Dotens for the past two weeks.

Rev. Karpenski has been attending a church meeting at Ironwood.

STREAM SURVEY

The state ERA has approved of a stream survey for Luce county waters, a project sponsored by the Tahquamenon Sportsman's club. Two clerks will be hired to list the ownership of all lands bordering on streams in the county with the view of setting up a stream improvement program of corrections and development of fishing waters. The club hopes to make fishing in Luce county second to none in the country. The work will be under the supervision of Louis Smith, supervisor of District Six, Newberry headquarters.

TRENARY NEWS

Girl Scout Meeting

Trenary, Mich.—The Hiawatha Girl Scout Troup held their regular meeting Friday afternoon in the high school gymnasium. Part of the time was spent in discussing plans for the camping trip to take place soon after the close of school. Fortunately most of the girls will be able to go, it is expected they will rapidly progress with their second class tests during the week in camp.

Senior Skip Day

The Senior class will not soon forget their skip day. They were the last class to take advantage of the privilege, and as they are seniors, they wished to make it a memorable occasion. Last Friday the whole class, accompanied by Edwin Beck, the class advisor, started early on a trip which took them to Sault St. Marie, and back to Trenary by way of Manistique. Many of the class had never seen the locks at the Soo, nor many of the other sights along the way. At the Soo a trip was made into Canada where they procured souvenirs of their trip. Altogether it was a happy but weary class that returned to Trenary late that same night. The students who took part in this outing were Miss Mary Davis, Miss Dora Maynard, Miss Grace Taylor, Miss Pearl Paulson, Rudolph Beltt, Daniel Finlan, Elmer Ibo, Miss June Kiser, Miss Eileen Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. William Trenary and their daughter, Jean, motored to Gladstone Sunday.

Miss Hilda Webber was a business called in Escanaba Saturday.

Miss Caroline Beck and Erwin Beck drove up Sunday from their home in Waukesha, Wisconsin, and spent the day with their brother, Edwin Beck.

Mrs. Norman Hall and her daughter, Joan, were in Escanaba shopping last Saturday.

Miss Dorothy Robinson went to Marquette Friday evening with her brother to spend the week-end with her parents. She returned to Trenary Sunday evening.

MENOMINEE ASTIR

USING its recently completed $100,000 breakwater as the starting point, Menominee is going right ahead energetically and confidently with its recreational development program as a means of drawing tourists to that region.

Menominee plans to promote yachting, swimming and water sports on an extensive scale. Its facilities are being publicized extensively through news stories and paid advertising in newspapers and magazines serving the Great Lakes region. Our sister city is displaying definitely its determination to lead the upper peninsula's parade to better times.

Yachtsmen are adventurous individuals. They like to pretend they are going to unexplored regions, and naturally they will be inclined to visit Menominee since that Lake Michigan port is providing special accommodations for them.

How natural it will be for these yachtsmen to explore further. When they look at the map of Green Bay waters their eyes will alight upon Escanaba. Yachtsmen who come north to Menominee will want to sail on to Escanaba, but it will be necessary for us to provide dockage facilities so that their pleasure craft can be adequately taken care of.

Let us as citizens of Escanaba who have an abiding pride in our community for its progressive spirit not forget our waterfront problem. We must do our part to make the waters of Green bay a real haven for pleasure boats.

BAND FESTIVAL

ESCANABA will be host to about five hundred student band musicians from all parts of the upper peninsula on Saturday at the annual band festival, an event whic hhas done much to make this community a music center. With relatives and friends accompanying the youthful bandsmen here, it is expected that the festival will bring almost a thousand visitors here.

Radical changes in the program are planned this year. Instead of holding the festival indoors, the program will be held at the athletic field, where mass maneuvers will be made before the grandstand which has a seating capacity of 3,000 persons.

Escanaba derives much benefit from a musical and commercial standpoint in the staging of this band festival, and the event merits wholehearted support of citizens of this community.

THE BIG CITY

THERE is something rather melancholy about this stunt by which a portable "barn" with an assortment of farm animals is being transported about in New York City so that children from the pavements can get an idea of what cows, sheep, and barnyard fowl really look like.

Living in a city offers many advantages, of course; but this stunt does emphasize some of the disadvantages which arise when city life is made too confining.

A child brought up under circumstances which keep it ignorant of the simplest of facts about rural life, so that it won't even know what a cow looks like unless someone lugs one around and exhibits it—such a child simply isn't getting a fair start in life.

Of course, there's nothing especially inspiring about the sight of a cow. But city pavements make a poor substitute for grassy meadows, and the mere fact that this portable barn arrangement is making such a stir speaks volumes about the artificial condition under which some city children live.

IN BIG TIME NOW

PROPONENTS of the movement to make Isle Royale a national park are greatly encouraged by the publication of an editorial in the Chicago Daily Tribune, urging that some definite steps be taken to preserve this scenic, rugged island from the exploitation that has marked the destruction of much of the northwest's natural beauties.

The Chicago Daily Tribune editorial will greatly help the Isle Royale cause and it might be a fine thing if letters of appreciation were sent to the editor of that metropolitan daily.

The editorial reads as follows:

"Not alone the midwest but the whole nation should be alive to the value of establishing Isle Royale in Lake Superior as a national park. There are few, if any, places left in America which match this island for wildness and rugged beauty. Michigan, Minnesota, and Wisconsin are now united in a movement which has the support of the Izaak Walton league and other nature lovers to acquire lands for a park which already has been authorized by congress. Activity has been stimulated by the news that the private owners of much of the island's timber are contemplating a logging program which, with its ally fire, would destroy in a year a forest wilderness which centuries alone can replace.

"Isle Royale lies about 200 miles northeast of Duluth and fourteen miles east of the Canadian shore. It is nearly fifty miles long, from five to nine miles wide, and comprises 229 square miles, mostly virgin forests of spruce and fir. It is dotted with beautiful small lakes, has more moose than any other area in the land, a vast variety of smaller wild life, and innumerable birds. In the winter it is almost unoccupied and inaccessible. In the summer it is a much sought resort by those who know of its lure, and it contains some fine estates.

"Michigan owns some 2,200 acres which it will transfer to the national park authorities, and public spirited private owners have promised to yield more of their holdings. It is an opportunity to secure for all people such a park as only nature can create.

"Historically the island is rich with interest. It has extensive mineral deposits, with evidence that long before the coming of the white man and before the day of written history aboriginal people were digging out its almost pure deposits of copper. Although much nearer the Canadian shore than to the United States, it was secured to this country in the earliest days of midwest history.

"There is every reason why its natural character should be preserved, and it is hoped the movement will meet with prompt success."

A LONG WORM

SOME time the war veteran is going to do something about the run-around which professional politicians seem intent upon giving him, and when that time comes, look out for smoke.

When large federal taxpayers wished to chisel on the dearly-earned compensation of disabled war veterans, under what guise did their campaign appear? "Balance the budget!" And after the sick and disabled ex-service men were cruelly deprived of reasonable compensation, after literally hundreds committed suicide rather than face a future of beggary, what happened to the budget? It has never been heard from since, while billions have been poured out of the federal treasury for a dubious "recovery."

When the veteran asks Congress to pay his long overdue adjusted compensation along with the billions being ladled out to various alphabetical projects, what happens? Henry Morgenthau, jr., secretary of the treasury, announces that if any form of immediate payment is asked, Congress must at the same time provide additional taxes sufficient to cover the additional expenditures in the year they are to be incurred."

Do you hear anything about taxes to take care of the five billion dollars to be expended at the whim of the President, either sufficient to raise same the years it is to be expended or any other time? You do not. New taxes in connection with administration expenditures are not even hinted, as yet. There's an election in the offing.

Elderly folk ask $250 a month pensions. Organizations demand a program to "share-the-wealth." To which Washington mildly replies, "Not just now, good people, but maybe later." The veteran asks payment of a past due obligation. Washington shrieks, "Treasury raider! Mercenary patriot!" And so on, ad infinitum.

For the benefit of those who consider veteran groups are comprised solely of half-witted simpletons, let us suggest that it is a long worm that has no turning.

CHAPTER XI

"We meet again," Violet Merser had said lightly to the handsome, portly gentleman who had invaded her prim little sitting room with its white paint and polished old tables and bright chintzes.

Victor Strykhurst opened his eyes quite widely at this. Then he stepped forward with his hands outstretched, every evidence of cordiality on his rosy, full-featured face.

"Violet! But this is extraordinary. My wife said . . ."

"What did she tell you? Sit down, Victor. Katharine is splendid; you may go up in a minute. But first I'd like to talk to you."

"Of course, of course." He settled comfortably in one of the deep-cushioned chairs, glancing around him approvingly. "But I never knew you lived in Innicock, Violet!"

"We've been here almost seven years."

"I knew you'd married, of course. Saw a bit about it in the papers."

Her dark eyes were rather enigmatic. "You didn't write to wish me joy. I—I rather thought you would."

He touched his full lips with the corners of a fine white handkerchief. "Katharine's mother died that year," he said rather hollowly.

"Yes, I remember. Your daughter is a lovely creature, Victor. Does she remind you of me at that age?"

"Eh?" Victor Strykhurst's color deepened a trifle. He glanced apprehensively in the direction of the staircase.

"Don't worry," Violet went on softly. "Her door is closed. She can't hear. I was Katharine's age just 17 years ago, Victor. I was 20 when I went to work in your office."

"Is it possible it's that long?" murmured the man, exhaling a deep breath.

"I was rather like her," murmured the woman with the tired dark eyes, staring out across the darkened garden. "I had the same prickly-pear attitude in regard to men . . . oh, yes, I've talked to Katharine today rather a lot. I've found out more about her, perhaps, than you yourself know."

* * *

Her tone held a subtle hint of mystery in it. The man glanced at her apprehensively.

"I know you're wondering what this is all about," said Mrs. Merser, rousing herself to speak in a slightly brisker tone. "Just this—the child is very definitely unhappy."

"Unhappy? My daughter?" There was injury in the man's tone. "Impossible! You were always an imaginative girl, Vi. Katharine has everything in the world. Why should she be unhappy?"

Mrs. Merser shrugged her slender shoulders. "I met the second Mrs. Strykhurst for the first time today, Victor."

He had the grace to flush.

"Bertine's been splendid with Katharine. She's very executive. She took her in hand . . ."

"Exactly!" Mrs. Merser's tone was dry.

"Katharine needs a lot of love, sympathy and understanding," she pursued a moment later. "Or—well, you know how it was with me. She may go off the deep end . . ."

"I haven't the faintest notion what you mean!" The man's annoyance showed in every syllable.

"I mean you may expect her to find sympathy—or love—wherever she can find it."

"Oh, tommyrot!"

"I did," reminded the woman, with rather a bitter smile. "My home was unhappy. I believed the first pretty story a man told me. You may remember . . ."

He looked as if the reminder were to him a painful one.

Violet Merser rose, as if terminating the interview. "Well, that's really all I wanted to say, Victor. Go on up now. First door to the right at the head of the stairs."

His tread echoed pompously through the house.

The woman, left alone, stared around her for a moment, as though rousing herself from a dream into which she had fallen. A lamp, lighted at her elbow, cast a golden circle of light upon polished mahogany and dropping rose petals. The swish of a broom, kitchenward, came to her ears; the clinking of milk bottles, as a screen door closed. Then the door to Lavinia's room was the murmur of voices, father and daughter's.

"Seventeen years," murmured the woman, half to herself. She settled herself with a book, but her gaze wandered from the pages.

* * *

"Well, well!" Victor Strykhurst came downstairs briskly, rubbing his hands together. "Katharine's in fine shape. We were in luck to come off so easily. Don't you think I could take her off with me tonight?"

"The doctor advised letting her stay till morning." Violet Merser smiled at him. "You'd rather get her out of my house, wouldn't you?"

"Nonsense, nonsense! I am eternally indebted to you for your kindness to Katharine!"

"I'm not going to tell her anythin gabout—us," said the woman with deliberation.

"Naturally, you wouldn't. You're a most sensible woman, Voilet. I always said so . . ."

"Not sensible enough!" A sardonic touch to her voice now. "That is, I'll not say a word, on one condition!"

He stared. "And that?"

"That you let her come to see me occasionally. That you don't attempt to wean her away from me. I like the child. I've taken a great fancy to her. I've two of my own now, Victor, you see."

"Really! But of course you must be friends with Katharine. Why not?"

"There may be another objection to that," commented Violet Merser dryly. "Your wife . . ."

"Ah, you didn't take a fancy to Bertine, I can see that." Putting back his handsome head, the lawyer gave the hearty laugh she so well remembered.

"Bertine is all right. She means well. It's not so easy, you know, to raise another woman's child."

Violet Merser smiled to herself. She could almost hear the second Mrs. Strykhurst's voice. He had been told that many, many times.

"I agree. I had a stepmother myself. Looking back now, I can see that sometimes she meant well . . ."

"You're very cozy here." His eyes roamed around the sitting room. "I've always noticed this place. Decent bit of garden."

"Stan inherited it from his uncle," the woman told him. "I married Stan Merser, the illustrator."

"Interesting," murmured the man, at a loss. "Well, well, Violet, I must be getting back. My wife will wonder if something has happened."

She allowed him to clasp her slender han din his fleshy one. "And—and we didn't know each other before, Victor!"

"Right you are!" There was relief in the words. "Explanations are so tiresome."

She stood, smiling rather wryly after him.

* * *

Katharine came down the stairs slowly the following morning.

"You're all right?" Violet's eyes sought hers anxiously. Outside Bertine sat at the wheel of

LYRICS OF LIFE

THE THINGS TOO BEAUTIFUL

Here are the lovely things of earth,
The things of beauty and of worth:
A song
(And yet so seldom heard for long),
A flow'r
(Perhaps that fades within an hour),
A friend
(Though even comradeship can end)—
These are
The things too beautiful by far.

These are the things of greatest joy:
The merry boyhood of a boy,
Yes, youth
(So soon to learn life's sterner truth),
The years
Of girlhood (while the woman nears),
Life's May
(So soon a part of yesterday)—
All these
That but a moment we may seize.

For all the lovely things we know
Seem slow to come and quick to go:
The dawn
(And then the night, the darkened lawn),
And love
(Uncertain as the skies above),
As bright
(And fragile) as the dew's delight—
Things passed,
The things too beautiful to last.

LEGION WORKING FOR CONVENTION

Upper Peninsula Posts Back Escanaba for 1936 Meeting

Additional support for Escanaba's bid to entertain the state convention of the American Legion in 1936 was promised by state and Upper Peninsula Legion officers who attended a meeting of Cloverland Post 82 at Escanaba Monday night.

Percy Saxton of Trout Creek, department of Michigan vice commander, declared that Escanaba had all the necessary facilities for accommodating the state convention of the Legion, but that much work remained to be done to convince other parts of the state of this fact. He suggested plans of publicity and promotion.

"The Upper Peninsula deserves the honor of entertaining the 1936 convention of the Michigan American Legion," said Mr. Saxton, "and I see no reason why it should not come to Escanaba. Personally, I will do all I can to spread the gospel for Escanaba."

Fred Bernardi of Marquette, commander of the Upper Peninsula Association of Legion Posts, said that the posts of the peninsula would work together in trying to bring the next state convention to the Upper Peninsula and to have Escanaba chosen as the 1936 convention city.

"We are behind you at Marquette, and there is no other city in the peninsula seeking the convention," declared the peninsula commander. "I know you have everything it takes to put on a state convention and I sincerely hope that Escanaba may be the host to the 1936 state meeting and the Upper Peninsula convention as well."

Commander Bernardi told of some of the features being planned for the Upper Peninsula convention at Marquette this year, July 12, 13 and 14, and invited the Escanaba Legion to send as large a delegation as possible.

Guy M. Cox of Iron River, adjutant of the Upper Peninsula Legion organization, and prominent in state Legion affairs, was also a visitor at the Escanaba meeting, and promised his cooperation in bringing the 1936 convention to Escanaba.

State Has Banner Year In Blister Rust Control

The annual report of Blister Rust Control work in Michigan proclaims the year 1934 as a banner year in its work of controlling white pine Blister Rust. During the past year, 75,519 acres of white pine in the state were protected, necessitating the working of 201,233 acres, and the removal of 12,721,083 Ribes (currant and gooseberry bushes). This work was carried on cooperatively by the State and U. S. Departments of Agriculture. Labor was performed by Civilian Conservation Corps and local men hired on NIRA, CWA and FERA funds. Work was performed on the Federal Forests and in the various counties. Of these totals, a good share was contributed by the Upper Peninsula, there being 37,442 acres of white pine protected, 94,377 acres worked, and 7,781,312 Ribes pulled.

In addition to control work being carried on by removing wild Ribes, a program of Cultivated Black Currant Eradication was executed in most of the counties of the State. A total of 6,019 locations, containing 57,087 Cultivated European Black Currants, were destroyed in 1934. The work, in the Upper Peninsula, consisted of removing 3,766 locations containing 37,773 bushes. This work was supervised by men hired on NIRA funds, and labor performed by local men hired on CWA and FERA funds.

Nurseries Protected

A program of Nursery Sanitation work was carried out on the Beal and Chittenden Nurseries in the Lower Peninsula, and the Dunbar and Manistique Nurseries in the Upper Peninsula. A total of 117 acres were protected in the nurseries, necessitating the working of 1,522 acres and the removal of 272,276 Ribes. Of these totals, 27 acres were protected in the two Upper Peninsula Nurseries, 572 acres were worked, and 136,001 Ribes were removed.

Before and after the eradication season, the supervisory personnel devoted its time to making preliminary surveys. This work consisted of making detailed maps of white pine areas worth protecting and estimatnig the acreage to be worked and necessary mandays of labor required. This survey will form the basis of the control program for the coming year. During 1934, 9,492 acres of planting site and 113,631 acres of white pine were mapped, which will require the working of 341,789 acres. The Upper Peninsula contributed 6,635 acres of planting site, 66,898 acres of white pine and 182,372 acres to work. This reconnaisance was performed on State, Private and Federal lands.

Kroeber at Escanaba

Michigan is in the Lake States Blister Rust Control Division under the direction of the Regional Office at Milwaukee, which is in charge of H. N. Putnam, Associate Pathologist, Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, U. S. Department of Agriculture. The field force in Michigan consists of a State Leader of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, E. C. Mandenberg, Lansing; J. K. Kroeber, Escanaba; and R. I. Thompson, Newaygo. This staff is augmented during the field season by temporary field agents who supervise the activities of the eradication crews.

There are two distinct phases of control work: (1) Eradiction of Cultivated European Black Currants within white pine growing counties; (2) Local Control, consisting of the eradication of wild Ribes in pine areas and in a zone 900 feet wide around pine stands. Nursery Sanitation work measures are similar to "Local Control," differing only from the latter in that an added safeguard is taken by removing all Ribes within 1500 feet instead of the usual 900 foot protective zone.

White Pine Blister Rust (Cronartium ribicola) is a fungus disease which attacks and kills white pines. It spreads from Pine to Ribes (currant and gooseberry bushes) and back to pine by means of windblown spores. It cannot spread directly from one pine tree to another but must pass through a stage on the leaves of the Ribes in order to complete its life cycle and can therefore be controlled. Control is accomplished by removing this alternate host (Ribes) in and around pine stands.

Came From Asia

Blister Rust originated in Asia, invaded Europe, and was brought to America on white pine seedling stocks from the nurseries of France and Germany early in the twentieth century. It is now present in every important white pine growing region in America. Quarantine regulations have since prohibited the importation of white pine and Ribes into the United States.

The disease was first found in Michigan in 1916 on imported pine in Oakland County and later on imported pine in Kent County. These trees were promptly destroyed but not before the disease had gained a foothold in the state. In 1928 it was discovered on native pine Cheboygan County and in 1929 in Marquette and Dickinson Counties. Subsequent scouting turned it up on pine in Baraga, Iron, Menominee, Houghton, and Ontonagon Counties in the Upper Peninsula, and in Mason, Iosco, Kent, Oceana, Leelanau, Sanilac, Ottawa, Emmet, Otsego, Cheboygan, and Alcona Counties in the Lower Peninsula. By 1934, infection on Ribes had been found in over half of the counties of the State. From the period 1928 to 1933, 5,849,993 wild Ribes were eradicated from 90,444 acres; and during the same period, a total of 3,185 locations of Cultivated European Black Currants were inspected, resulting in the removal and destruction of 33,158 bushes.

Comparing the figures for 1928 to 1933 against the 1934 accomplishment, it can readily be seen that work performed in 1934 exceeded that of the total work performed previously. An even larger program is planned for 1935.

YACHT OWNERS GETTING READY

Menominee Looks Ahead To Busiest Season in History

Menominee, Mich.—With the busiest yachting season in Menominee history expected to follow completion of the new Menominee Beach breakwater, yacht owners are beginning to strip the canvass covers off their boats and are getting their spring overhauling underway.

Work on Commodore Alfred A. Henes' cruiser Dorothy has been going on for several weeks, and her topsides have been given a fresh coat of black paint, together with her cabins and upper works. The Dorothy will not be launched for about three weeks.

Ray Pfankuch is fitting out the Alibi for the coming season, and she will be ready in about a week. Among the improvements to the Alibi are a new coat of paint, a new radio, changing of the wheel, and new upholstery.

Mooring Pier

A mooring pier, 20 feet long and four feet wide, which will float inside the breakwater, is being constructed by Ray Pfankuch and Adolph Limmert. The pier is held up by oil cans, covered by one inch planking, one end being fastened to the seawall. Through a misunderstanding, a similar pier used last year by Ray Pfankuch, was broken up last fall.

Albert Hanson's Inez, completely refitted during the winter, has been moored inside the breakwater for the last week. The Inez has been given several coats of red paint on the bottom, with freshly painted white topsides, and all the interior work and the engine have been painted as well. Brass fittings have been given a bright, chromium finish, and the entire craft has been overhauled.

The Zudora (with Rudolph Erdlitz' Duchess, first boats to lie behind the breakwater this spring) has been overhauled by its owner, Arthur Wendt, this spring. The Zuldora got a fresh coat of paint, and a dual radio control was installed.

Delays Work

Robert Landre is delaying work on his boat, the You and Me, until the Vagabond, owned by Dr. G. R. Duer, is moved. The two boats were stored for the winter in such a way that it is impossible for Landre to get at his yacht until the Vagabond is launched. The You and Me will be given a spring coat of paint later on, and will be in the water around May 30.

The Framona, trim cabin cruiser owned by Frank Lauerman, Jr., docked at the breakwater yesterday after returning from Sturgeon Bay, where she underwent repairs to her cabin finishings.

Stephenson Smith's Betty II joined the growing fleet of craft at the breakwater this week. Other boats refurnished for the coming season include the Ethel Lees, owned by A. W. Raditch; the Jolly Roamer, owned by Duncan Monroe; the Black Beauty, owned by John Reindl; the Sea Nymth, owned by Robert Bruce and Fred Schilawski; Sea Boots, owned by Robert McComb.

Traffic Slips Sliced In Half, Survey Shows

Only 176 traffic violations were reported by Escanaba Boy Scouts in their survey Saturday, compared with 354 for the previous week.

In the list check Saturday, however, were several repeaters, motorists who had been tabbed as traffic law violators on the previous Saturday.

Talks on safe driving were given at Escanaba high school and St. Joseph's high school Tuesday by Trooper Sheehan of the Michigan State Police, and Jack Floyd, Boy Scout commissioner. Statistics on automobile accidents and a summary of some of the common causes of accidents were given to the school audiences.

The Michigan State Police list leading causes of accidents as follows:

Inattention, as used in traffic analyses, is the failure of motorists to use their eyes efficiently so as to see all of the highway conditions with regard for which they must operate their motor vehicles.

Incautiousness is that failure to anticipate changes in the course of traffic-turns, stops, etc.—or in the conduct of pedestrians working or playing on or about the highway.

Excessive speed is a speed of a motor vehicle that is too rapid to permit its being stopped in the assured clear distance ahead. That the motorist shall be able to stop his automobile within the assured clear distance ahead means that he shall not drive so fast that he can't see and react to changes of traffic conditions or movements. He must be able to see and react to all changes. He must know how quickly the vehicle can be stopped at any given rate of speed. Reaction time for the average motorist is three quarters of a second. In other words, after preceiving a danger, three-quarters of a second is required for him to get his foot from the accelerator to the brake pedal. At twenty miles per hour his car covers twenty-two feet during reaction time. The brakes are not actually applied until after the elapse of reaction time.

Improper overtaking and passing is the attempting to overtake and pass when there is not sufficient clear distance ahead.

Improper left turns are left turns made in other than the manner prescribed by law.

Failures to signal are failures to make correct signals as well as failures to make any signals at all.

Ignorance of traffic laws is manifested by the making of improper turns, signals, and by the wrong positioning of vehicles on the various lanes of the highways.

WHY AMERICA PREFERS BUDWEISER

1. Its distinctive taste and delightful tang have made it America's first choice for three generations.
2. Its quality has made it the biggest selling bottled beer in history and built the largest brewery in the world.
3. Brewed by the same formula since 1876—always uniform—everywhere.
4. Not artificially carbonated—BUDWEISER is twice fermented for natural carbonation and sparkle.
5. Brewed from the cream of the barley crop and the choicest selection of domestic and imported Bohemian hops.
6. One brewery that makes its own Malt—Anheuser-Busch never buys it from outside sources.
7. Pioneers in pasteurization of bottled beer—every bottle sterilized.

Theatres

A woman's eager pursuit of the glamor of romance is said to be the theme of the latest Janet Gaynor and Warner Baxter co-starring vehicle, "One More Spring," scheduled to come to the Delft Theatre for a two day the feature attraction.

Reports from other cities where this Fox Film is playing to capacity audiences, reveal that it scores one more triumph for these gether on the screen.

It is a dramatic modern story, of high adventure and gallant courage, adapted from the widely acclaimed novel of Robert Nathan which proved a best-seller.

The locale is a large city park during the rigors of winter and the promise of spring.

Into this spring drift, separately, a number of strange types, each original, each reduced by circumstances to near destitution. They include a girl out of work, a ruined auctioneer, a starving violinist, a suicide-courting banker, a white-wing worker, a cop, and a lion-trainer.

This motley crew, brought together by fate, work out their destiny, and find that their hitherto drab lives have been together.

Janet Gaynor is said to have a deeply emotional role as a courageous girl alone in the world. Warner Baxter is the romantic adventurer who clings to the right to dream.

As the slow-moving easy-going Huntamer, the inimitable comedian stepin Fetchit has a role that is good for a thousand-and-one laughs.

In the supporting cast are Walter King as the roving musician, Jane Darwell as the motherly scrub-woman, Grant Mitchell as the humbled banker, and Roger Imhof as a workman.

SOO LINE SUED FOR BACK TAXES

Effort Made to Clear Legal Tangle of Two Railroads

In three suits started Monday at Madison in the Dane county circuit court, the state of Wisconsin seeks to collect more than $1,500,000 of back taxes from the Soo Line and Wisconsin Central railroads.

Two of the equity actions name a long list of defendants, including the receivers of the Wisconsin Central line and those identified in the trust and mortage indentures that have figured in the complicated affiliation of the Wisconsin Central and Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie Railway Co., the Soo Line.

In event of failure to settle the Wisconsin tax claims, foreclosure on the liens upon the Wisconsin Central and the Soo in Wisconsin is demanded and it is asked that "such railway properties" in the state be sold at public auction to the highest bidder under court direction.

Question as to Receiver

Another section of the summons questions the capacity of A. R. Wallace, Minneapolis, general manager and president of the Soo, to act as receiver for the Wisconsin Central. The proported surrender by the Soo of the Wisconsin Central properties is alleged to have been subterfuge to escape taxation and debts.

The litigations are centered around three claims by the state.

The first dates back to June, 1932, when the tax commission made a joint assessment on the railway properties of the defendants in this state and levied a tax in the name of the Soo Line of $975,923. The Soo system, according to the complaint, paid all but $341,577, which the state now seeks to collect with interest.

Joint Levy is Issue

The second action is for an assessment of $526,001 made in 1933. In that year the state made a joint assessment against the two railroads, the Soo having a 99-year lease of and control of the Wisconsin Central. The Soo system in turn sued Robert K. Henry, state treasurer, on the ground that a receiver had been appointed for the Wisconsin Central properties in December, 1932, and alleging that the joint assessment of the two properties was invalid.

The state in turn re-assessed the Wisconsin Central, separate from the Soo Line, and extended a tax of $526,000, which it is charged, the railroad has failed to pay. Fifteen per cent interest since Nov. 31, 1934, is demanded.

The third claim is for the 1934 assessment, in which the state again made a joint assessment of the two carriers, for a total tax of $540,002.

The action brought by Atty. Gen. James E. Finnegan with Walter D. Corrigan, special counsel, and W. G. Sullivan of McCann and Gold, attorneys, seeks a total judgment of $1,407,000 taxes plus penalty interest.

Liability is Issue

One of the objects of the suit is to determine the liability for the taxes, tracing the maze of transactions between the two railroads and their financial backers.

The old Wisconsin Central was a timber day route, built from Chicago to Burlington and Waukesha and into upper Wisconsin via Duby Junction, outside of Milwaukee. Its line ran to Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Stevens Point, Marshfield and into the Twin Cities. At Owen a line branched off to Superior and Ashland.

The Soo system used the line for connections with Milwaukee and Chicago. The Canadian Pacific was interested in the Minneapolis and Chicago connections and for years there was speculation that the Canadian railway would some time absorb the division operating in Minnesota and Wisconsin with its line into Chicago. The Milwaukee road had a terminal agreement with the Soo for handling its business via Rugby Junction.

Tax Collections Difficult

The Soo Line has controlled the Wisconsin Central since 1902 under a 99-year lease. With the Wisconsin Central in receivership and the Soo system losing money, the state has encountered difficulty in its tax collections. The new suit is an attempt to force the Soo to accept tax responsibility for the Wisconsin Central which at one time had its headquarters office in Milwaukee.

The actions in equity name some 40 defendants other than the two carriers, including such banking and investment houses as the United States Trust Co., Empire Trust Co., Central Hanover Bank and Trust Co. and the Guaranty Trust Co. A number of officers of this corporation are named.

Among the defendants are members of a bondholders' protective committee of which Frederick W. Walker, vice president and finance officer of the North western Mutual Life Insurance Co., is a member with Samuel L. Rosenberry, New York attorney, as secretary.

THEATRES

Signal honor was done Ramon Novarro by his native land during the filming of "The Night Is Young," glamorous Viennese musical romance in which he and Evelyn Laye are to be seen commencing tonight at the Rialto Theatre. He was made an honorary chief of the national police of Mexico City.

Second Feature

Hidden hopes and secret hates are revealed in the life of a group of individuals in "Dangerous Corner," written originally by J. B. Priestley as a successful stage play, showing as the second feature. A bond theft among four partners, a death, supposedly a suicide, a lapse of time in which the sleeping dog, as Truth, lies undisturbed—and then revelations. Virginia Bruce, Melvin Douglas, Conrad Nagel, Erin O'Brien Moore, Henry Wadsworth and Betty Furness are in the cast.

ERA PROVIDES GARDEN SEEDS

Will Distribute Packages At Relief Office On Thursday

The Schoolcraft County Emergency Relief commission has received 400 packages of garden seeds from the subsistence gardens department of the Michigan emergency welfare relief commission to be given to families on relief. Distribution of the seeds will be made at the relief offices in the basement of the court house on Thursday.

Each of the packages contains over a dozen packets of seed, in all, sufficient to plant a 30 by 50 foot back yard garden. Vegetable seeds included are: onion, lettuce, radish, sweet corn, beets, peas, beans, carrots and spinach. More than one variety of corn, peas and beans are provided. The seeds are evidently of very good quality as they come from one of the best known of the reliable seed houses in the middle west.

For those families who have no space for a garden, the local relief commission has a tract between Houghton and Weston avenues at its disposal. Garden plots in this area will be allotted those having no other space.

Those receiving the seeds will be required to sign an agreement stating their address and the location of their garden. They must agree to work and cultivate the garden and keep it free from weeds. The agreement further provides that the produce of the garden is not to be sold but to be preserved and stored for winter use insofar as that is possible. The gardeners also agree to permit inspection of their gardens and that in case of failure to carry out the agreement, the commission may turn the garden over to someone who is willing to properly care for it. It is also understood that relief is to be withdrawn from those failing to carry out the agreement.

BY FRANK MAC MILLEN
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, May 21 (AP)—Today's stock market performance represented a widening of the ripple of buying in industrials and specialties which got under way in the pervious session.

Buying was active in selected groups, including chemicals, nonferrous metals, building stocks, oils and refrigeration issues. In all of these divisions there were representatives in the no longer exclusive new-high-for-1935 club.

Activity broadened considerably in the stock market, with turnover at 1,139,380 shares. The Associated Press average for 60 stocks advanced .2 of a point to 40, but the 30 industrial issues used in the compilation were .6 of a point up at 58.9.

The fifth successive rise in lead prices in a week or so, and the opinion expressed to stockholders of American Smelting Co. by the chairman that a further rise in the domestic price of copper could be expected, attracted an active following into the metals group. Magma Copper lifted to a new peak for the year with an advance of 2½ points to 34. Fractional advances were registered by Anaconda and Kennecott at a point or so below their best levels for 1935.

Most of the steel stocks exhibited a firm tone as early filings of third-quarter price schedules indicated that the general level would be about on a par with those now prevailing.

Some of the seasonal favorites were brought to the fore today. Servel was at a new 1935 top of 9 7-8 at one time and Kelvinator ... 14¾ was active and slightly higher.

CHICAGO GRAIN
Chicago, May 21—A short covering movement developed in the wheat pit toward the close of the session today and sent prices higher. Corn, which had sagged with wheat earlier in the day, closed lower.

Wheat closed firm, 1-8 to 5-8 of a cent above yesterday's finish, July 90¼ to 90 3-8, and corn closed ½ to 1¼ down, July 81¼ to 81 3-8. Oats closed 1-8 to ¼ lower and provisions were 8 to 15 cents higher.

May wheat established a new seasonal low at 88 3-4 before the rally began. Shorts resisted the rise as long as possible, although an oversold condition ... been noted in the market before ... ning, but firmness in stocks and pers... at commission house buying forced them to cover and prices rose quickly.

The corn trade was largely local and professional. Opening a little lower, prices continued downward in the absence of any stimulant, and the lightness of outside interest, combined with bearish weather news produced the decline.

Oats were featureless, following corn mostly. Rye took its cue from wheat, closing 3-8 to 7-8 higher.

Provisions responded to the rise in hog values.

New Yoork, May 21 (AP)—Railroad issues continued to drift lower on the bond market today although prime investments and utilities remained fairly steady with minor net gains predominating. U. S. governments were fairly steady.

The prolonged easiness in rail bonds was attributed more to the lack of sufficient demand to absorb the scattered offerings than to any organized liquidation. Particular soft spots were Chicago & Terre Haute 5s, Erie 4s, New Haven 4s and Rio Grande Western 4s, all of which were 1 to 2 points lower.

In the industrial and utility divisions there was a more even trend and fractional changes were the rule. Bethlehem Steel 5s were an outstanding performer at 110, up 1½ on the day and International Paper 5s were a point higher at 72.

Although more active, U. S. government bonds varied little from the levels of the previous day.

The foreign department was steady to firm with improvement in Denmark and German obligations the central feature.

Curb Mart Resumes Its Upward Trend

New York, May 21 (AP)—Following initial hesitation the curb market resumed the upward trend today. Specialties continued in the foreground but improvement also appeared in utilities, metals, oils and others.

American Hard Rubber got up nearly six points, Quaker Oats and Dow Chemical advanced 2 while issues finishing fractions to around a point higher included Bridgeport Machine, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, Creole Petroleum and Hudson Bay Mining.

ESCANABA PAYS BELOW AVERAGE

Students Cost $35 Less To Educate Here, Report Shows

BY PAUL MAY

Washington, D. C., May 20.—Escanaba pays $35.40 less annually for each student in average daily attendance in its public schools than the average annual cost for the United States, according to a new report by the United States Office of Education.

In Escanaba, the report shows, the total yearly current expense per pupil is $58.65. The United States average is $94.05. This national average is based upon complete reports from 315 cities, chosen as representative of four population groups, for the 1933-34 school year.

In its own population group, from 10,000 to 29,999, Escanaba ranks 49th among 80 cities listed, paying $7.06 per year less than the average for the group, which is $65.71.

The highest cost recorded in this group is in Hempstead, N. Y., $139.92. The lowest is Shelby, N. C., which is $22.31.

The yearly cost per pupil in Escanaba is broken down as follows: general control, $2.87; instruction, $42.40; operation of plant, $9.28; maintenance of plant, $1.97; coordinate activities and auxiliary agencies, $1.18; and fixed charges, $0.95.

The figures given exclude cost of night schools, expenditures for care of children in special institutions, costs of debt service, including interest, and capital outlay and items of depreciation.

Lansing (AP)—Nineteen airplanes from Selfridge Field, commanded by Col. Ralph Royce, landed here Tuesday on a test flight, then returned to their base.

the big car. Ellen, with a suitcase, followed her young mistress.

"Oh, I'm perfectly fine. Just have to get my land legs again."

"Well, it's been lovely having you."

Sybil and Diana were on the edge of the group, their long legs brown and slim under the brief shorts of their white play suits.

"Do come again to see us, Miss Katharine. Please do!"

"Oh, I will! And there must be another puppy for the basket, mustn't there? A nice quiet one who will stay at home when he's told to?"

"Oh, yes, yes," they chorused, dancing up and down.

Bertine smiled stiffly, her company smile. She climbed out to assist Ellen who was helping Katharine in.

"Thank you ever so much, Mrs. Merser. My husband and I are eternally grateful."

The words were right, but the tone withheld much. Bertine was saving, behind that pleasant mask of hers: but of course no one knows the Mersers in Innicock. We shall smile and bow to you in Main Street, of course; that is all.

Katharine waved to them until the car disappeared out of sight, around the bend.

"Mummy, who was the fattish man who came after we went to bed last night?" Sybil's wistful, round face with its long golden mane was lifted to her mother's.

"Oh, you bad ones, you were supposed to be asleep!"

"We peeked." Sybil said confidingly. "We heard the car stop and saw him come up the walk. Was that Miss Katharine's daddy and was he nice?"

"Very nice," said Violet absently.

Diana pounced upon her.

"Mummy, you're not listening. I can always tell when you're not listening. You use such a far-away voice."

"Oh, do I? But I was, really, this time. Sybil asked if Katharine's father were nice and I said yes, he was."

"But sort of puffy, Mummy, wasn't he? It wasn't quite dark and ge got a good look at him. Not nearly so good-looking as Miss Katharine. Don't you think she's beautiful, Mummy? Sort of like a movie star?"

"Yes, I do. She's really lovely."

"Shall I ever be that lovely, do you suppose, if I stop biting my nails and things?" Sybil asked gravely.

"I think very likely. Look, if we want to get down to the village to get things for lunch we'd better start."

Violet wheeled the little car out and the two hopped into it.

"Mummy, what were you muttering to yourself just now?"

She flashed her dark eyes at them. "Just a song some one I know used to sing. The words of it, I mean. Don't remember the tune."

"What were they, Mums?"

Violet answered: "Oh how I laugh, when I think how I cried about you!"

3 Men Ride to Death at Indianapolis Speedway

STUBBLEFIELD DIES IN CRASH

Johnny Hannon Killed in First Test at Wheel On Oval Track

BY CLAUDE H. WOLFE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Indianapolis, May 21. (AP)—Three men rode to their deaths at the Indianapolis motor speedway today while preparing for the 500-mile automobile race May 30.

W. H. (Stubby) Stubblefield, 37, veteran Los Angeles pilot, leaped the wall on the southwest turn late today while nearing completion of his 25-mile qualifying run and was injured fatally. Leo Whittaker, a neighbor of Stubblefield, riding with him as mechanic, died with the little driver who had finished every 500-mile race he started.

Big Johnny Hannon, who came out of Norristown, Pa., as the eastern dirt track champion to try his fortune on the rough brick course here, was killed earlier in the day when he lost control of his mount in the third turn. He was dead when picked up. Oscar Reeves, Indianapolis, his riding mechanic, was taken to a hospital, where he was said to be in serious condition tonight.

A Black Day

It was one of the worst days for fatalities in the history of the track, which has been operating since 1909, and brought the total number of deaths at the speedway in that time to thirty. Twenty six of the victims have been drivers and mechanics; four were spectators.

Drivers blamed Hannon's death on speedway inexperience, for he was making his first fast drive at the wheel around the two-and-one-half mile oval course. Before he took the car this morning, he rode several fast laps with Tony Gulotta, Kansas City, a teammate wise to speedway ways. Gulotta said he told Hannon to drive carefully until he got the "feel" of the track.

Hannon never finished that first lap. He rode high into the turn and nosed down to the inner wall, where he began a long skid which ended when he crashed through the concrete retaining wall on the upper edge of the track. He was thrown clear of his car. Reeves, the mechanic, still was in the car but unconscious.

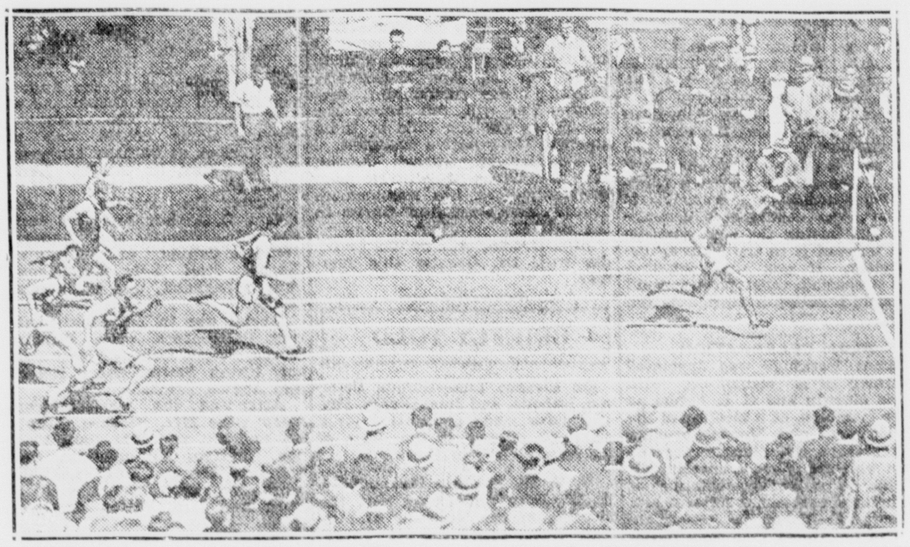
What happened to Stubblefield never will be known. He had completed six of the ten laps of his 25 mile qualifying trial just before sunset at an average speed of approximately 117 miles an hour. Suddenly the car skidded as the veteran eased into the turn, shot like a meteor up the track, skimmed over the retaining wall and apparently turned end-over-end until it stopped against a wire fence.

Both Stubblefield and Whittaker were thrown clear of the car and still breathing when an ambulance reached the scene. They died enroute to a hospital.

Stubblefield and Whittaker met their deaths at almost the identical place where Peter Kreis, of Knoxville, Tenn., sportsman race driver and Bob Hahn, his mechanic, were killed while practicing for the race a year ago. Other drivers in years gone by have plunged over the same wall to death.

George Connor, of San Bernardino, Calif., a newcomer here; A. B. (Deacon) Litz, of Dubois, Pa., and Egbert (Babe) Stapp, of Los Angeles, qualified their cars between the time Hannon was killed and Stubblefield's accident.

Owens Makes It Easy for Track Judges



Leading his nearest rival, Janicki, of Wisconsin, by 10 yards, Jesse Owens, Ohio State's colored flash, tied the world record of 9.4 seconds as he won the 100-yard dash in the quadrangular track meet with Northwestern, Wisconsin and Chicago. Here is an unusual action shot showing Jesse unpressed as he finished the race. The Buckeye ace had a rather full afternoon, winning the broad jump, the 220-yard dash, and setting a new world mark of 22.9 seconds over the 220-yard low hurdles.

Highland Golf Club Has Opening Sunday

Official opening of the Highland Golf club will be held Sunday, May 26, it was announced yesterday by the president, Dr. Howard Johnson.

The occasion will be emphasized by the opening of the new club house, which is now completed and ready for use. The club house is painted white with green trimmings and a red roof for contrast. The landscaping and green background of the course make a very attractive combination. Parking space has been provided for, and a new fence has been erected surrounding the space.

Considerable work has been done on the greens and approaches. The fairways are in perfect condition. The roughs hav been cleared out, particularly along numbers two and three fairways. The entire course is much improved over other years and is in excellent condition.

At 10 a. m. Sunday a handicap match will be staged, with suitable prizes for the winners. This will be for men only. At 12 o'clock a luncheon will be served in the club house for all members of the club including the wives. Immediately after lunch several contests of skill will be held, such as putting, pitching, and driving. Prizes will also be awarded for the winners. At 2 p. m. everyone will play in a mixed two-ball foursome. This form of contest proved very successful last season and numerous requests have been made for another such match. Registrations for twilight league players will be taken Sunday.

Grant Larson, well known Escanaba golfer, has been secured to act in the capacity of pro for the club this season.

LINEUPS MUST BE FILED SOON

May 25 Is Deadline for Reporting Baseball Personnel

A group of first class attractions feature the second week games of the Tri County Baseball League. Teams which made their league debut away from home last Sunday will make their first appearance as a member of the league on their own diamonds and before their home fans this Sunday.

The schedule:

North Division

South Siders at Perkins.
Rock at Osier.
Trenary at Nahma.
Wells at Athletics.

South Division

Spalding at Schaffer.
Bark River at Powers.
Daggett at Grands.
ERA at Groos.

In the Escanaba district local fans will have their choice of three games—Wells vs. Athletics on the North Escanaba diamond, Daggett vs. Grands on the South Park diamond, and ERA vs. Groos at Wells diamond.

The opening games of the league season played last Sunday gave the various team managers their first real idea of the strength of their various aggregations—and, more important, of their weakness. These team managers are busy this week bolstering up the weak spots in their lineup and shifting their lineups around accordingly. The official personnels of the various league teams must be reported to the league president by May 25—Saturday of this week.

Several teams learned from Sunday's games that their pitching leaves much to be desired and before the deadline for filing entry lists, it is not unlikely that some hurling staffs will be revised.

Eskymos Seek to Capture Another Title At Iron Mountain

With the regional championship safely tucked under their belt, Escanaba high school trackmen travel Saturday to Iron Mountain where they will make a determined bid for the championship of the fourteenth Upper Peninsula Interscholastic field and track meet.

The Eskymo coaches, Carl Nordberg and Leon Schram, were very well pleased with the showing made by their charges in the Houghton meet last Saturday. The boys showed much more strength in several events which was not expected and they turned the meet into a rout. Holderman's work in the half mile and Sullivan's performance in the high hurdles, both record breaking, were the outstanding events of the day.

The entries for the Iron Mountain meet are as follows:

Boston, May 21 (AP)—Manager Joe Cronin dropped himself to seventh place in the Boston Red Sox batting order today and paved the way for a 7-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians by belting out a triple with two on base on his first trip to the plate.

Cronin's triple off Willis Hudlin, the first of the three Cleveland hurlers in the action, scored Rick Ferrell and Carl Reynolds. The Boston manager counted when Lefty Fritz Ostermueller banged out the first of two lusty singles.

Cincinnati, May 21 (AP)—Scoring seven of their runs in the first inning and the other two in the second, the Brooklyn Dodgers today defeated the Cincinnati Reds 9 to 1 behind the five-hit pitching of Van Mungo and Dutch Leonard.

Mungo received credit for his sixth victory of the year but was forced to retire after hurling six innings because of a blister on his pitching hand. The Dodgers drove Danny MacFayden off the mound in the first and continued to pound Gene Schott. Leroy Herrmann entered the game in the third and blanked the Dodgers with three hits through the remainder of the contest.

BOSTON BRAVES BEAT CUBS, 4-1

Babe Ruth Gets Homer And Makes Several Nice Catches

Chicago, May 21 (AP)—Babe Ruth hit his first home run in more than a month and contributed a couple of nice running catches today as the Boston Braves broke Tex Carleton's two-year spell over them and beat the Cubs, 4 to 1, to even the series at one game apiece.

The Babe's homer, his third circuit blow and the eighth hit of his new National league career, came at the start of the sixth inning and sailed over the right field wall. Randy Moore followed the Babe with the Braves' second homer. A double by Mallon and two passes finished Carleton, who had entered the arena boasting a string of seven consecutive victories over the Braves. He beat them six times as a Cardinal last year and once as a Cub two weeks ago.

Masonville To Play Garden On Sunday

Rapid River, (Special)—Masonville one of the strongest teams in this vicinity last year will organize a baseball team this week. They were unable to get a franchise in the new Tri-County league because of late entry so will have to be contented to play what games they can get.

Thirteen games were played by Masonville last year, winning ten and losing three. Lack of practice will probably be shown Sunday when they tackle the strong Garden club at Garden. The battery hasn't been formed yet but it is expected that Clayton Wright or Bob Miller will do the hurling. Wright last year had an average of twelve strikeouts per game for the first five games played. He defeated the strong Rock Spartans last year, striking out fifteen batters and allowing them but five hits, also he defeated the tough Perkins team, issuing them but five hits. He also beat the Esky Athletics 11-0. Masonville will be handicapped this year by the loss of their catcher, Chet LaPine, who incidentally will be catching for Garden. Bill Miller, a newcomer will be tried out behind the bat.

Any team desiring games should get in touch with Bert Ebbeson.

PIRATES BEATEN BY GIANTS, 9-4

New York Gets 7 Runs in Wild Sixth Inning Attack

Pittsburgh, May 21 (AP)—After being held scoreless for five innings by Waite Hoyt, the New York Giants opened up with a slashing attack that netted seven runs in the sixth and then went on to whip the Pittsburgh Pirates 9 to 4 and square the series at one game each today.

Thanks to the generosity of young Clyde Castleman, who walked the first two men to face him, the Pirates held a 1 to 0 lead and apparently had the game well in hand with Hoyt pitching fine ball when the storm broke loose.

The New Yorkers unleashed an eight hit attack, including a homer by Hank Leiber, to drive both Hoyt and Ralph Birkofer from the mound. Guy Bush finally was called in to get the last two men out and stop the rally. He was taken out for a pinch hitter in the next inning, however, and Mace Brown, rookie right hander, and Big Jim Weaver worked the remainder of the game.

The Pirates drove Castleman from the mound in the eighth when they scored two runs as the result of Gus Suhr's pinch triple but Bill Terry's young right-hander received credit for his fourth straight victory of the season.

MICKEY'S CREW MIGHT PROTEST

Game Postponed Despite Sunny Afternoon in Philadelphia

Philadelphia, May 21 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers' campaign through the eastern baseball strongholders was interrupted by a postponed game today, and Mickey Cochrane indicated he would go to the American league moguls with an official protest aaginst the Philadelphia club.

Connie Mack, Cochrane's old boss when Mickey was catching for the Athletics, announced that today's game was off after looking out at a rain shower about 8 a. m. By afternoon the sun was shining and conditions apparently suitable for baseball.

Last year the Athletics postponed a game with Detroit for no great reason, according to the Tigers, and at that time the Detroit management asked the league to do something about such cancellations.

Poor attendance is one reason bandied about for such postponements, and Detroit will have to play a doubleheader here to make up for lost time.

Schoolboy Rowe will be Mickey's starting pitcher Wednesday against George Blaeholder, just obtained by Philadelphia from St. Louis.

News of other major trades in the league gave the idle Tigers something to think about today, but there was no indication that any trade involving Detroit's present lineup was pending.

Dizzy Dean Figures in Near Riot at St. Louis

St. Louis, May 21 (AP)—Dizzy Dean was led from the field under police escort today after a near riot in the fifth inning interrupted Philadelphia's 7 to 6 conquest of the world champion Cardinals.

Ill-feeling expressed in jibes by the rival players during the early innings flared into action in the fourth when Coach Hans Lobert accused Paul Dean, on the mound for the Cardinals, of throwing a bean ball at Lou Chiozza.

Paul dropped his glove and squared off. Dizzy, anxious to be his brother's keeper, rushed to the scene from the bench, but the umpires interfered and there were no hostilities.

In the fifth Al Todd, who replaced Jimmy Wilson after the Philadelphia catcher was injured in the first inning, was hit by a pitched ball. He dropped his bat and started for the hurler's box.

Dizzy again leaped out to back up "Lil Paul," and players from both dugouts swarmed on the field. A few belligerent punches were traded, but the threatened free-for-all subsided after Dizzy, held by two teammates during the brief fracas, was led from the diamond by police. A crowd of 2500 cheered his departure.

The Dizzy one has had a feud with Todd since their Texas league days, when Todd knocked him down for alleged use of the bean ball.

In the sixth inning Lobert also was sent from the field after a too vehement protest that Spud Davis, Cardinal backstop, was stepping out of the box too quickly. Catcher Bill Delancey was chased off the Cardinal bench during the first for making "unpleasant remarks."

BROWNS SELL BUCK NEWSOM

Senators Pay $50,000 to St. Louis; Blaeholder Traded for Cain

St. Louis, May 21 (AP)—Brusque old Rogers Hornsby, the fortunes of his St. Louis Browns at even lower ebb than usual, today did something about it.

The old Rajah traded away Pitcher George Blaeholder and sold Louis "Buck" Newsom, the manager's last year rookie hurling prize, and loyal Brownie fans were left pop-eyed but loquacious.

Blaeholder, who has toiled eight years for the Brownies, was traded to Connie Mack for Pitcher Merrit (Sugar) Cain and Outfielder Parke E. Coleman. Newsom, a self-assured young giant who in 1936 won 16 games in his first year in fast company, was sold to Washington for $50,000.

It was announced the deals were engineered as part of a program "to improve the club."

Upon recovering from monetary paralysis the boys from the St. Louis south-side, whose German fathers and grandfathers taught them to cheer the Browns through continued and very dark adversity, grew vocal.

"He'll do it yet," they asserted. "Just wait until Hornsby finishes dickering and we'll have a mighty sweet ball club; the kind of team that'll make everyone forget about the Cardinals."

Newsom and Blaeholder neither have been very effective this spring. The former has started six games and lost them all. Cain has suffered five consecutive defeats.

Diamondball Loops Are Planned Here

An ERA diamond ball league will be formed this week of fast ball teams. If there are enough teams, two leagues, an American and a National, will be drawn up.

Two well known teams of past seasons have already signed up and it is hoped that all other teams will join. The North Stars and the Spads are the teams that have enrolled.

To get the league under way as soon as possible all team managers are requested to send their entries to Fred Pintal at the junior high school before Friday, May 24.

Practice games will be held on the various diamonds this week.

Cardinals Beaten By Phillies, 7 to 6

St. Louis, May 21 (AP)—Paul Dean lost his third game of the season today as the Philadelphia Phillies took their series opener from the world champion Cardinals, 7 to 6.

The young hurler got in trouble in the second and fourth innings and was replaced on the mound by Kleinke in the seventh after Philadelphia staged a three run rally in the sixth. With his usual control lacking, he was hit freely for eight safeties.

YANKEES LOSE TO WHITE SOX

Simmons and Radcliffe Get Homers for 3-2 Victory

New York, May 21 (AP)—With Al Simmons and Ray Radcliffe hitting home runs, Ted Lyons, veteran right-hander, turned in his fourth victory of the year for the Chicago White Sox today as the league leaders defeated the New York Yankees 3 to 2 to square the series at one all.

For five innings Lyons and young Vito Tamulis hooked up in a scoreless pitching duel, the White Sox veteran allowing only three hits and the Yankee youngster one less.

In the sixth, the Sox found the range. With one out Radcliffe dropped a double in left field. Manager Jimmie Dykes flied out but Al Simmons crashed through with his fourth homer of the season. Simmons' blow broke a string of 16 consecutive scoreless innings for the rookie southpaw.

Tamulis Lifted

The Yankees came back to tie the score in the seventh, however, George Selkirk led off by lifting one of Lyons' shoots into the right field bleachers for his third homer of the year. A double by Frank Crosetti, Arudt Jorgens' sacrifice and an error by Luke Appling gave the Yanks their other run.

Tamulis was lifted for a pinch hitter in the seventh and it was off Johnny Murphy that Radcliffe got his home run in the eighth to provide what proved to be the winning run.

The victory, coupled with the Red Sox' defet of Cleveland, increased the White Sox lead to two and one-half games over the second place Indians.

Is Designed to Publicize Famous Bay de Noquet Angling Region

The newly-organized Rapid River chapter of the Wolverine Conservation association is sponsoring as its first major activity the staging of the

The bass fishing season opens on June 25. The head of Little Bay de Noquet, in the vicinity of Rapid River and Masonville, is famous for its bass, perch and pike fishing.

At the organization meeting, Harry Buchman was appointed chairman and Robert McPherson, secretary, of the executive committee to have charge of arrangements for the festival. Other members of the committee are: Nels Westling, George Shorey, J. A. Shippy, Melvin Cardinal and Oscar Sundquist.

The festival program will be patterned somewhat after the Upper Peninsula Smelt Run Jamboree, which was held in Escanaba the latter part of March.

Will Crown Queen

A Fishing Festival Queen and ladies of her royal court will be selected from among the graduating class of the Rapid River high school to reign during the celebration.

The Festival Frolics, a burlesque entertainment, will be staged at the Rapid River high school auditorium Monday evening, June 24, according to tentative plans. On Tuesday, June 25, the opening day of the bass season, fishing will be the chief diversion. Free boat service will be furnished by the townspeople to visiting anglers. In the evening, a fish supper will be held, to be followed by a dance. Fly casting demonstrations are also planned for the early part of the evening.

Sportsmen from all parts of northern Michigan and Wisconsin will be invited to participate in the celebration.

PIKE BITING

Wall-eyed pike have started to bite by trolling at the head of Bay de Noquet near Masonville, according to reports received yesterday. Exceptionally large catches have been made during the last few days. F. E. Pearson, who operates a boat livery at Masonville for the convenience of fishermen, is making preparations for a busy season. He is repairing his boats and also adding new equipment to the service.

Disabled Veterans Give Dance May 25

Acrobatic dancing by Miss Anita Swanson and tap dancing by Billy Skradski will be features of a dance to be staged by the Disabled American Veterans at the Argonne Saturday night, May 25.

Music for the ball will be supplied by the Melody Men.

STANDARD OIL DEALERS MEET

Efficient Methods for Serving Public Are Discussed

Standard Oil dealers from Escanaba, Menominee, Iron Mountain, Norway, Iron River and Manistique attended a meeting at the Eagles hall here last night.

The meeting was the first of the 1935 series of conferences to be held under the Standard Oil's auspices to give dealers opportunities to study the most efficient and modern methods of serving motorists.

At the first conference the special merits the company has found to lie in newspapers as an advertising medium was unfolded, and the dealer informed of the details of the recently launched 1935 newspaper advertising campaign. Time was devoted to the study of the composition of the advertisements, their effect on the reader, to their local significance in terms of each effect on the reader, to their local significance in terms of each dealer's specific activities, and to the relation of the motorist to dealer and the necessity of giving the motorist cheerful Standard Service.

Those attending the meeting from the Green Bay office and participating in the program were: D. C. Stimson, special representative, who served as toastmaster at the program; M. K. Banks, advertising representative in the Green Bay district; A. E. Gallagher, sales analyst of this district, W. T. Bannister, general manager in the Green Bay district; O. G. Miller assistant manager and N. R. Grimshaw of Chicago, assistant general manager in charge of the central division.

After the meeting refreshments were served and entertainment furnished by a number of local musicians. Conferences to follow throughout the year will present to the dealer other phases of how best to serve his motoring guest, as revealed by extensive research studies conducted by Standard's marketing analysts.

Firestone Store Opens Thursday

Established in connection with the Upper Peninsula Firestone warehouse, a new Firestone store will open Thursday at 913 Ludington street. The store will be a complete automobile supply store, carrying tires, tubes, batteries, brake lining, spark plugs, seat covers, oils, polishes and other accessories, in addition to garden hose, flash lights, radios and other items in the motoring equipment line.

The store is under the management of J. H. Fawcett, who has been with the company for a number of years at Akron, Ohio; Milwaukee and Seattle.

Workers Uncover Old Newspapers

Munising, May 21—Several old newspapers, some over 35 years old, were uncovered here today by workers who were demolishing the old service station owned by Westly Ward on the corner of Superior and Cedar streets. The papers were three in number: a Grand Rapids paper, a Detroit and a Chicago paper. The papers were yellow, dirty and crisp with age and in some places the print was not legible.

The Detroit paper was dated March 22, 1897, and was an extra addition of the Evening News. It carried the account of Hazen S. Pingree's victory in the Republican convention at Detroit. How he proved himself a master of the convention and had Capt. A. E. Steward nominated for the office of mayor. Pingree at the time was governor of Michigan and at the same time mayor of Detroit. This issue also carried the news of the terrible cyclone disaster in Georgia in which a dozen little school children were killed and five little schools smashed to atoms.

The Grand Rapids paper was so dirty and the printing so obscured with age that the date was not legible and its exact date could not be determined. Mr. Ward stated that the paper carried accounts of the Spanish-American war, so probably was dated about the same time as the others, about 1898.

The old service station which has stood for about 40 years will be replaced with a clean and modernized service station. About five men are working on the new building.

Plans For Federal Hatchery Hit Snag

In view of the fact that a federal fish hatchery for this district is not favored by officials of the United States Bureau of Fisheries in Washington, the Munising Development club's committee on this project is going ahead in an effort to remove a burden which is being carried by local commercial fishermen. According to a report from Washington the officials of the fisheries bureau feel that a natural spawning of the fish provides a larger and more healthier stock of fish than artificial spawning. This was found by a four year experiment made by that bureau.

It has been urged by fishermen in this district, which includes Munising, Grand Marais and Marquette, to construct this hatchery here in place of the one in Duluth, whis is now operating on a restricted schedule. It is the claim of the fishermen that the Duluth hatchery cannot handle the demand for stock and that because of the distance between here and Duluth some of the stock is disturbed, the expense of shipping is large and there is a slow-up in the handling of them.

Building Of Sewer Pipes Planned Here

Plans are rapidly going forward by C. T. DeHaas, Marquette contractor for the manufacture of 1500 lineal feet of reinforced concrete sewer pipe to be laid from the corner of Cedar and Onoto streets as a FERA project.

The pipe will be manufactured here on the site adjacent to the Bay View service station. Laborers were busy today unloading equipment and building a cement shed.

It is estimated that if the regular FERA shift is used it will take about 30 days to manufacture the pipe. However, it is hoped to secure two shaft on the job so as to expedite the work.

Fire Hazards High, Public Is Urged To Take Care In Woods

It becomes necessary during periods of high fire hazard to prohibit any unnecessary use of fire in the woods. To protect the forest and to maintain the wold life, the public is requested to be especially careful of throwing matches from their cars while driving.

Due to the present high fire hazard prevailing in this area, brush burning must not be done. Until the fire hazard is considerably reduced no burning permits will be issued for brush burning.

The public is urged to lend the forest service 100 per cent cooperation in keeping fire out of the forests.

PRE-SCHOOL CLINIC

The pre-school clinic for children starting school next fall will be held in the schools this week.

On Wednesday, May 22, the clinic will be held at the Washington school; Thursday, May 23, at the Lincoln school, and Friday, May 24, at the Mather school. All clinics will begin at 1:30 o'clock.

Parents are urged to bring their children to the clinic as it is a matter of great importance for children starting school. The clinics are sponsored by the Parent Teacher Association Council.

STATE HIGHWAY

At a joint meeting of the Munising Development club and the Grand Marais Civic Development association held at the Beach Inn Monday evening, an effort was put forth to obtain a state highway between here and Grand Marais. A resolution, which will be sent to the state highway department in Lansing, was adopted by the two clubs, asking for a survey of a route although it is hoped to have the road follow along the shore of Lake Superior.

It was considered that the Alger county board of supervisors adopt a similar resolution, forwarding it it the Alger county road commission and having the road commission forward it to the highway department. It was also suggested that a possible relief project could be made if action is started on the road.

PLAN CELEBRATION

James Hoskings was appointed chairman of a committee, with Lewis Merwin and C. L. Peters as other members, at a meeting of the Development club Monday evening to represent the club in negotiations with the city commission pertaining to a local celebration of Michigan's centennial anniversary.

George E. Bishop, secretary-manager of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, at Marquette, contacted the commission and they turned it over to the club.

The club adopted a resolution regarding the abolishment of the code authority under the retail merchants code. The action was started by the Michigan Retail Hardware association in Lansing.

William Duffet reported to the club that the playground would not be ready this summer as a settlement of three or four months of the filling in on the playground would be necessary before the top surfacing could be started.

Laborer Is Found Dead Near Rails

William Marjanemi, 31 year old laborer, was found dead here today near the railroad tracks between Cannon's camp and the Melstrand road.

The man was lying face downward in the sand. His face was blue as though he had choked to death. It is alleged by persons who saw him before his death that he had been drinking for sometime before his body was found.

Marjanemi was unmarried but has relatives at Dukespar. Funeral arrangements have not yet been arranged.

MUNISING BRIEFS

The ladies of the Presbyterian Aid will sponsor a supper in the church parlors this evening, starting at 5 o'clock and continuing until all are served.

St. Anthony's Guild will meet this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Charles Savoie.

The Hobby Club will meet at 2:30 Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Joseph Goss, Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Stone, Jr., have returned from Howell with Mr. Stone's sister, Julie, who had been a patient at the Howell sanatorium for the last three years.

Mid-term examinations will be held in the Freshman college here the later part of this week.

George Leiphart visited in Marquette yesterday.

Bakery Situation In Kansas City Is Considered Acute

Kansas City, May 21 (AP)—Sanitation inspectors laid down a state of siege tonight against "bread bootleggers" to forestall possible violence.

Small bakeries in outlying communities were quick to seize the opportunity provided by a strike of union bakery employees which closed Kansas City's main bread sources—and sent housewives on a hunt for dustry recipes.

"If we don't stop this inflow of uninspected bread, not only will health be endangered but there will be some trucks blown up," said a city official who asked that his name be withheld.

Small bakeries turned their backs on pies, cakes, cookies and tarts and concentrated on bread-baking to meet the demand.
